New Freeway To Open on April 14

Daly City's portion of the county-long Junipero Serra Freeway will be officially opened at a gala ribbon-cutting ceremony at 11 a.m. Thursday, April 14.

The ceremony will be conducted just north of the Washington Street on-ramp.

S.S.F. Council Approves 2nd Cab Company

South San Francisco's second cab company won official City Council approval last night, with a unanimous resolution to grant an operating permit to Progress Cab Company.

The firm, which holds permits from San Bruno and Millbrae, has been operating in South San Francisco on a temporary basis.

The application elicited a heated argument from Richard Lyons, attorney for the South San Francisco Yellow Cab Company. "It's important that cab companies which have been in operation be protected," he told the council.

Lyons contended that "several Peninsula cities" are without regular cab service because competition has forced taxi companies into bankruptcy.

Evelyn Wick, a registered nurse, told the council she had been forced into retirement by (Please See Page 2, Column 4)

Prep School For Beauty Entrants Set

Candidates for the "Miss Daly City" contest will this year get a chance to brush up on "the tricks of the trade" at a charm school on April 23.

All candidates can participate in the school, which will be held at Westmoor High School's Little Theater at 10 a.m., and will be conducted by Diane Darnell, a noted Bay Area fashion model.

Object of the school, according to Mona Baker, fashion commentator for the contest, will be to give all participants an opportunity to be more at ease under the gaze of the judges.

The workshop will feature tips on posture, poise, voice, makeup and fashion.

The school will be free to all registered applicants.

Preliminary judging for the contest will be held at Westmoor on April 29. Final judging (Please See Page 2, Column 4)

Federal, state, county and city officials have been invited to attend.

After the ceremony, the officials will tour the new portion of the freeway in a caravan.

Mayor Francis Pacelli said that to date, more than 30 top officials have been invited to attend the ribbon-cutting.

Opening of the freeway will occur about two weeks before anticipated. A State Highway Division engineer reported last month that he expected the segment to open late this month or early in May.

Daly City's portion of the Junipero Freeway extends 2.7 miles from the San Francisco city line to a point south of Eastmoor Avenue. Total cost will be almost $10-million.

A bid for landscaping the freeway is expected to be advertised late this year.

The Division of Highways had budgeted $500,000 for the work. Opening of the freeway, which ultimately will extend through the backbone of San Mateo County to Santa Clara County, will mark the start of a new temporary detour for traffic bound northward to Nineteenth Avenue in San Francisco.

To reach Nineteenth Avenue, Daly City residents will have to enter the freeway at the Washington Street on-ramp or detour to Nineteenth Avenue via Lake Merced Boulevard and Brotherhood Way.

Highway Division officials said said the detour is necessary to permit construction of a section of freeway connecting the completed Southern Freeway with the Junipero Serra Freeway.

JESD Sets Track And Field Meet

Name Verducci In Title

The Jefferson Elementary School District Monday night approved the naming of a seventh and eighth grade track and field meet which will be held on May 7 at 1 p.m. at Benjamin Franklin School.

The board approved "The Coach Joe Verducci Memorial Track Meet" as the official name for the first annual spring intra-district athletic event.

Meet director will be William Mendosa. He will be assisted by Dennis Huajardo, a consultant in physical education.

The event will be in co-operation with the Daly City Recreation Department and will have participation from the fifth grades up, according to Dr. Vinton Stratton.

In other business, trustees discussed their speaking assignments for the district's forthcoming centennial spring concert. The centennial is being planned to encompass the regular public schools week observance. The concert series will start on April 26. Each school will participate in the 16 concerts.

Dr. Stratton was asked to make a tentative schedule of about three speaking assignments each for trustees. Board Chairman Thomas Noonan volunteered to be first speaker.

Trustee Joseph Lewkowitz is chairman of the event.

The board also approved hiring of three certificated personnel, eight noncertified supervisors and two substitute teachers. The substitute teachers will receive $20 per day. Two requests for maternity leave were also granted.

Vote Bureau To Be Open

The Post-Times will operate special election night bureau Tuesday for readers who wish to know early results of balloting for North County city councils.

The bureau will be maintained from 8 p.m. until the time when fairly conclusive results are known for races in Daly City, Pacifica, South San Francisco, San Bruno and Colma.

Polls close in all cities except Colma at 8 p.m. Colma closes at 7 p.m. Readers may call the Post-Times at WY 2-2282 for results.

Complete results and stories on the voting will be published in next Wednesday's editions of The San Mateo Times and in next week's Post-Times.

GEORGE S. FRANKLIN Killed in Action

Jeff Athlete Is Killed In Vietnam

George (Steve) Franklin, former captain of the Jefferson High School wrestling team, has been killed in action in Vietnam.

He died after being hit by fragments from an anti-tank mine, according to information received by his mother, Mrs. Mayre Albert of 3 Royce Way, Daly City.

Franklin was a private first class in the First Mechanized Battalion, Fifth Infantry, Twenty-fifth Division, U.S. Army.

He had been living with his father in San Pablo, prior to entering the service.

A graduate of the Jefferson Class of 1961, he not only captained the school's wrestling team but also played football and participated in track at the school.

In addition to his parents, he (Please See Page 2, Column 7)

San Bruno Candidates Face Finish

With five candidates for three city council seats in the upcoming municipal election, San Bruno voters have a choice between experienced leaders and serious-minded challengers.

Mayor Neil Christal, and City Councilmen Karney Barberian and George Ingham are seeking re-election to their own posts after already serving the city for years.

San Bruno school teacher Charles "Russ" Hanley, and commercial artist Henry W. Crosby, who has taken active interest in city council functions in the past few years, are the challengers.

Neil J. Christal has been a council member since 1962, and has been mayor twice.

5 Candidates Vie In D.C. Election

Two veteran councilmen, an incumbent making his first try for election, a former councilman and a relative newcomer to the political scene are vying for three seats on the Daly City Council.

The election campaign to date, most observers agree, has been on the mild side with the incumbents relying on their records in office to woo votes.

Here are the candidates: Michael DeBernardi, incumbent, seeking re-election to a fourth full term. A councilman since 1954, he has served a term as mayor and is a member of the West Bay Rapid Transit Authority's board of directors. He has been closely identified with efforts to increase Daly City's water supply and modernize facilities.

Edward Dennis, incumbent, senior member of the council, seeking re-election to a fifth term. He has been a councilman for 16 years and led the ticket when he was last re-elected in 1962. He has been president and business representative of the Milk Drivers' and Dairy Employees' Union, local 226, of San Francisco and San Mateo Counties for 19 years.

Bernard Lycett, incumbent, making his first try at election since he was appointed to the council in 1964. He succeeded Councilman Robert St. Clair. (Please See Page 2, Column 4)

Coast Race Draws To Heated Finish

Three incumbents and six challengers will seek the approval of voters in Tuesday's election in Pacifica for three city council seats.

In addition, three ballot proposals also will be up for a decision. They concern beach acquisition, purchase of a site for a new civic center and low cost housing for senior citizens.

The beach proposal calls for a $1,865,000 bond issue. Proceeds would be used to purchase beach frontage for development as a municipal recreation area.

The civic center proposal calls for a bond issue of $300,000. Proceeds would be used to buy a site, as yet undetermined, for the center.

The third ballot proposal would authorize the San Mateo County Housing Authority to build low-rent housing for the city's senior citizens.

Here are the candidates:

Fred Ballew, incumbent, seeking re-election to a second term. He has served as mayor and formerly served four years on the Park, Beach and Recreation Commission. He is an engineering draftsman for the Bechtel Corporation, an engineering and construction company in San Francisco.

Don McManis, incumbent, making his first try for election to the council. He was appointed 18 months ago to fill a vacancy left by the death of Harold Feyge.

He was a charter member of the Planning Commission and served on the commission before his appointment to the council. Harland Minshaw, incumbent, (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Colma Has 3 Running For 2 Seats

In Colma, a quiet little town where almost everyone knows almost everyone else, the council race in the Tuesday election is among three familiar faces.

The two incumbents—Raymond D. Ottoboni and Mrs. Rena Valleriga—are seeking re-election, challenged by Fred Garbini, himself a councilman until he was unseated two years ago.

Ottoboni operates a flower shop and nursery established in Colma by his family.

16 Will Vie Against 13 Incumbents

Polls Open At 7 in All Cities

Teachers, lawyers, custodians and machinists—they'll all be in the running Tuesday when voters in five North County cities elect 13 councilmen from a field of 29 candidates.

The field includes 13 incumbents and 16 challengers. Among the challengers are former mayors, a former Korean consul, a former police chief and the head of a planning commission.

Polls will open in Daly City, Pacifica, South San Francisco, San Bruno and Colma at 7 a.m.

They will close in all cities except Colma at 8 p.m. Colma voters will cast ballots until 7.

A total of 65,399 residents are registered to vote in the five cities.

Daly City, the county's second largest municipality, heads the number of registered voters with 23,450. The town of Colma, (Please See Page 2, Column 5)

Backgrounds Vary in SSF Council Race

Seven candidates are seeking two City Council seats in Tuesday's election in South San Francisco.

The two incumbents, Patrick Ahearn and Andrew Rocca, face distinguished competition.

Patrick Ahearn is a former mayor of the city. He served from 1962 to 1965. He was vice mayor from 1960 to 1962. He was chairman of the North San Mateo County Council of Cities from 1964 to 1965. Ahearn's occupation is a general contractor.

Andrew Rocca has been a resident of the city since 1938 and (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

Planners To Mull Pedro Beach Zoning

Planning commissioners will consider the rezoning of Pedro Beach in Pacifica from agricultural to commercial-recreation at their next meeting April 18. If approved, public hearings will then be held.

Two letters from beach property owners protesting the present classification were discussed by commissioners at a meeting Monday night.

Lawrence Wiechers and Peter LoBianco, both Pedro Beach property owners, object to the new agricultural zoning ordinance classification for their property.

LoBianco, who lives at 315 Shoreside, Pacifica, owns the site of Wisbey Realty. He calls the rezoning a "gross injustice" and suggests a possible misconception by some that "it may have been the intention of our city administration to devalue land which it hopes to purchase after the April bond election."

(The State Division of Highways is also considering purchase of the property.) Commissioners say the property was rezoned agricultural to conform with other property in the area which is under the new zoning ordinance. Both Wiechers and LoBianco are presently operating businesses under a use permit.

In other business, commissioners abandoned a "paper street" which now runs through Fairmont West, and continued to a study meeting April 26 the application of Mrs. Edna Myers for a larger residence and music study on Paloma Avenue in the Sharp Park district.

The five challengers represent a cross-section of the city's economic life. Warren Steinkamp is the present chairman of the city's Planning Commission. He has served on the Park and Recreation Commission and is a member of the city's master planning committee. He is a past president of the Winston Manor Homeowners' Association and an executive committee member of the San Francisco Naval Shipyard Employees' Association. He is employed by the shipyard as an estimator and planner.

Young Han Chan, an unsuccessful candidate for the South San Francisco Unified School District Board of Trustees two years ago, is seeking a seat on the council. A naturalized citizen, he served from 1949 to 1960 as Korean Consul in San Francisco.

Louis Belloni, the third challenger, is a former South San Francisco chief of police. James Petty, a realtor in partnership with his wife, has been waging an aggressive campaign calling for changes and improvements on several issues.

Roy Gilardi, the final contender, has taken a leave of absence from his job as assistant city building inspector to enable him to seek council office. Gilardi is a former secretary to the planning commission.

The polls open Tuesday at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. There are 16,871 registered voters in South San Francisco.

S.S.F. Council Approves 2nd Cab Company

the lack of adequate transportation. "We definitely need better transportation in South San Francisco," she said, "and we have gotten it since we have had Progress Cab."

She told of having to walk to work on one occasion when a taxi broke down, and on another when a cab she ordered four hours in advance did not show up until three hours after the specified time.

Harry Wolfe, 535 Second Avenue, San Bruno, told the council he was most upset with the poor condition of the present cabs.

"We need great improvement," he said, and even supplied the license number of one taxi he considered particularly offensive.

In response, Lyons maintained that breakdowns and dirty cabs are only a sign that the vehicles are being used. "A dirty cab is a busy cab," he declared.

Lyons admitted that the existing service is sometimes slow, but added somewhat irrelevantly that this is also true in New York, "where there are thousands of cabs."

The council, he said, should grant his client exclusive permission to operate cabs in South San Francisco, to protect the company from the ravages of competition.

"As long as I am on this council," declared Councilman Patrick Ahern, "no one will ever have an exclusive."

The audience applauded enthusiastically. "If the people need the transportation, we should supply the best we can," Ahern said. "I don't think we should stifle competition."

Councilman Andrew Rocca agreed. "We have to provide adequate transportation," he said.

Mayor Frank Bertucelli, who said he had ridden in a Yellow Cab recently and found it to be in fine condition, nevertheless made it clear that he too favored competition.

"The one that gives the service is the one that gets the business," he declared. "Let the fittest survive."

Attorney Walter Capaccioli, speaking for Progress Cab, said, "We feel that competition will serve the good of the community."

The council's unanimous approval of the permit is contingent upon the company's compliance with requirements specified by Chief of Police John Fabbri. Capaccioli said the company will fulfill any demands the city makes.

The council agreed to hold a study session with spokesmen for both Progress and Yellow Cab Companies present, to discuss setting fares within the city, thus avoiding unfair price competition on anyone's part.

He has a wife, Alice; a son, George Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Susan Knight, Ogden, Utah. He is a native of Clinton, Ill., and a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan University with a degree in economics. He is a four-year veteran of the Navy, and came to San Bruno in 1946.

Henry W. Crosby is making his first try at winning election to the council, although he has been closely following city government for three and a half years, partly from his own interest, partly as a representative of the Pacific Heights Homeowners Association.

Charles Hanley has been a teacher in San Bruno elementary school eight years, and is president of the San Bruno Education Association. The polls open Tuesday at 7 a.m. in San Bruno and close at 8 p.m. There are 14,555 registered voters in the city.

Mrs. Blanche Lagomarsino, appointed to the clerk's office in 1956 and re-elected twice since, is running unopposed. Three challengers are seeking the job of treasurer, now held by Gilbert H. Parker who is resigning.

D.C. Needs To Keep Incumbents

THE AMAZING growth of Daly City has not been accomplished without friction, but, in spite of local political storms, the growth has gone forward in an orderly way and the fundamental municipal services have kept pace with it.

Credit for this must be given to the long-term incumbent members of the council, Micheal DeBernardi and Edward J. Dennis. Fitting sensibly into their pattern, of providing for the daily needs of the citizens as a matter of first importance, has been the performance of a third incumbent, Bernard Lycett, who was appointed to the council two years ago.

Though the huffing and puffing of local politics may have elements of excitement and temper, it is the factors of efficient and economic city operation, of competent foresight and planning, and of responsive government, that are genuinely paramount to voters and taxpayers. These should be their first considerations on election day.

DALY CITY is going to continue to grow and its municipal problems will become more numerous, more complex, and more difficult.

It makes good sense, therefore, for the voters to value and keep an experienced council on the job. They need dependable and knowledgeable direction of the city's affairs.

The Post recommends that Daly City voters insure both the present and future of their city by re-election of Incumbents Micheal DeBernardi and Edward J. Dennis, and the election of Bernard Lycett.

Ottoboni and Vallerga Deserve Vote in Colma

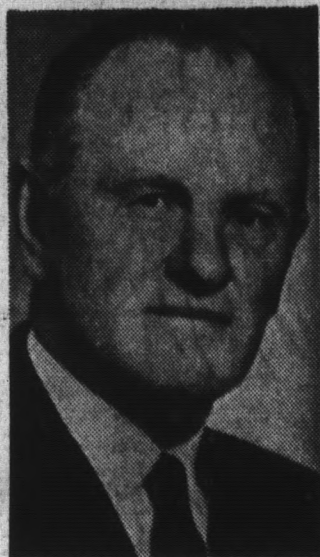

Colma's city council race is unusual in that the three candidates seeking the two posts open at the April 12 election all have served as members of the council.

Ray Ottoboni Sr. and Mrs. Rena Vallerga are both incumbents while Candidate Fred Garbini is a former councilman and mayor who was defeated in 1964. There is no question as to the full qualification of all three to serve.

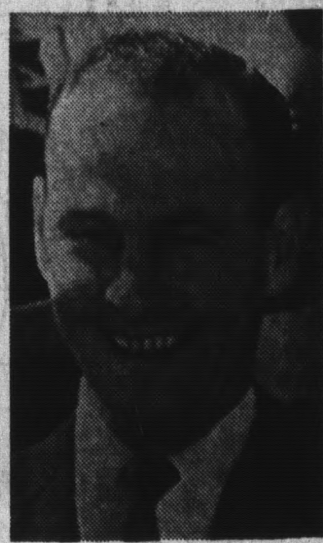

The Times recommends the re-election of the two incumbents, Ray Ottoboni Sr., and Mrs. Rena Vallerga. The recommendation is based, not on any objections to Candidate Garbini, but upon the consideration that the present council, as fully constituted, has had only the comparative short time of two years to carry forward its programs and deserves a continuation in office for this purpose.

Other editorials may be found on Page 18.

By LE PACINI

WHAT MORE appropriate way to usher in the baseball season than with some selected baseball yarns? From Pacifican Owen Kashevaroff (commissioner of the North Peninsula League) about his boyhood friend Gil McDougald (who, if you don't remember, is the only man in the history of the game to make the All-Star team at three positions—second, short and third):

"The legend is that Gil could never make his high school team—Commerce in San Francisco—and that's essentially the truth. He was a skinny little guy until his late teens, when he had his tonsils removed. Within a few months he became a big wiry guy, and then he signed. Even then, Joe Devine (Yankee super scout) wasn't especially enthused about Gil.

"Gil's father had helped Devine to sign Andy Carey out of Santa Clara, though, and had a little money coming on the deal. He told Joe to give Gil the money he (Gil's father) had coming from the Carey deal. Devine did, and the rest is history.

"When Gil retired at age 32 with apparently a few good seasons still in him, we all thought he was crazy, but he had business interests in New Jersey which had already made him 'wealthy man.' 'When the Angels got their Los Angeles franchise Gene Autry wanted Gil badly. He offered Gil a two-year contract of $50,000 a year and a fabulous brand new home. Gil told Autry he couldn't afford the deal.

"I once asked Gil what made the Yankees so special. He told me this story: When he reported to Yankee Stadium for the first time, he was early, and there wasn't a soul around except for a dignified little old man who greeted him and took him through the clubhouse.

"He would stop at every locker and explain who had once used it, Ruth, Gehrig, Dimaggio, in his own way brought out the entire tradition of the Yankees. When he got to Gil's locker he told him its history—also the history of the number of the uniform which had been issued to Gil. It was a regular low-pressure indoctrination, a quiet pep talk, and Gil said that by the end of the quiet, austere session, he was ready to charge out on the field and die for the New York Yankees."

IF THIS AUTHOR may add one. We once walked into the high school office of George Wolfman (now baseball coach at Cal), and were introduced to a gangling redhead whose name we didn't catch. When he left, Wolfman said to us, "There goes the next Yankee second baseman." That was in 1950 and Gerry Coleman, another San Franciscan, seemed to be firmly established in that position. We shrugged off the silly prediction.

Wolfman was wrong. McDougald didn't become a second baseman until several years later, after Billy Martin had had a crack at it. All he did in 1951 was play third base, hit .306, become Rookie of the Year, and become the first man in history to hit a World Series grand slammer. Some people just wouldn't recognize talent if it was sitting in their office.

AND FROM LEFTY GOMEZ: "Sports writers can really make a guy look good (author's note: which is a refreshing view point). In the 1936 World Series Mel Ott comes up in the last inning with us ahead by one run, two outs and men on first and second. I go to three and two on him, and close my eyes and pray on the next pitch. He hits it so hard at Tony Lazzari that it belts Tony in the chest before he can even get his hands up, but Tony keeps it in front of him and turns it into a double play.

"The next day the headlines read, 'Gomez Hero, Forces Ott to Hit into Doubleplay.' The next spring I'm in the shower with Lazzari and the outline of the ball is still on his chest.

"Another time I'm in a tie game in late innings against Bob Feller, the bags are loaded, two are out, and I'm up. For some strange reason Joe McCarthy wanted to keep me in the game, so he sends me to the plate, but with orders not to take the bat off my shoulder.

"So I go up there, Feller runs the count to three and two, and then has an unexplainable lapse and walks me, forcing in the eventual winning run. Next day the headlines read, 'Gomez Displays Keen Eye at the Plate to Beat Feller.' Keen eye! Hell, I hadn't taken the bat off my shoulder since I'd left the hotel that morning!

"To show you what kind of hitting pitcher I was, one day I hit the second double I had hit in my whole life—the other one had been in a pickup game on the main street of my hometown, Rodeo. The first step I take off the bag I get picked off.

"McCarthy's furious. 'Gomez,' he says, 'what in the blankety-blank did you think you were doing out there?'"

"Getting acclimated," I told him, "after all, to me that's virgin territory. I got fined."

AND FROM DALY CITY resident and former San Francisco Seal, Pittsburgh Pirate hurler Con Dempsey: "We had a center fielder on the Seals named Jack Boccocchio who could do everything—except, as it turned out, hit. But he came up from Salt Lake City in the class C California League with fantastic credentials.

"In his first game he singles, starts to second, sees he's going to get thrown out, so cuts right across the diamond and makes a beautiful slide into third, right in front of a flabbergasted Lefty O'Doul. Naturally, he was out, since the rules don't provide for such a maneuver.

"O'Doul was so stunned he wasn't even mad. All he did later in the clubhouse was shake his head and say, 'Jack, I thought I'd seen everything in baseball, but you got one up on me tonight.'

"Jeez, Lefty," said Jack, "you got to give me a chance to get used to this triple A baseball."

TOM FESTER, formerly of San Bruno's Capuchino High, recently performed outstandingly to help spark his San Francisco State Gators to a second in the Far Western Conference gymnastic championships at Chico. Fester finished second in the parallel bars, third in the all-around, and fifth on the long-horse.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO'S dead-eye Jim Henry garnered more post-season basketball recognition, recently, by being named to the third team All Northern California squad of a San Francisco daily. Henry was named first team on that same paper's All North Coast squad.

Jim was the only NPL player to make the lists.

IF DRYSDALE and Koufax are really worth that much—and we have a hunch they are—what's Willie Mays worth? Certainly not a measly $125,000.

TERRA NOVA'S "B" track squad looks like one of the best yet produced in the NPL.

D.C.'s Oldest Horse Race Fan

THE RACES at the Goshen, Indiana Autumn Fair of 1884 were about to begin. Slim, 13-year-old Charley Butts swung aboard his black gelding, Billie Tricks, his brown eyes dancing in excitement.

It would be his first race and he was eager to go.

"Good luck, Charley boy," said the trainer, giving him an affectionate pat. A few minutes later Charley flew across the finish line, two lengths ahead of the field, winner of the first race in his long jockey career.

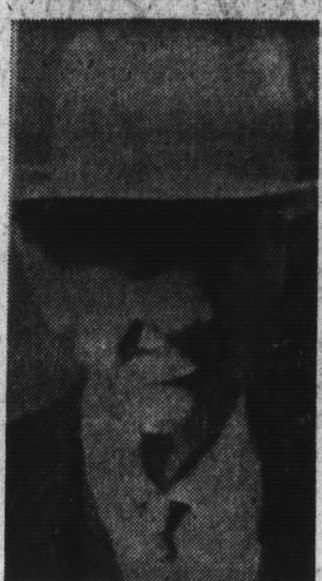

Now 95, the crusty, talkative, five-foot four Charley as friends and neighbors still call him, maintains a lively interest in racing.

"My sight and hearing have dimmed a little," he says smiling, "but I can still read the form charts and I watch all the races on TV."

Still in good health and eager to stay that way, he walks several blocks each day to the shopping plaza for exercise, then returns home to 1244 Southgate Avenue, Daly City, here he resides with his daughter, Mrs. Rita Heaton.

HE DOESN'T remember how many races he won during his 20-year career as a jockey. "But I won a lot," he says, maybe 2,000.

The most important win he

CHARLIE BUTTS

can recall was a stakes race at Chicago in 1895. "For that win the owner gave me a thousand dollars. It was the biggest money I ever got all at once. We used to get $10 for a mount and $20 for a win. But we got paid for other work, too. In those days we didn't have stable boys. The jockeys did all the work. We took care of stables, joggled and exercised horses, and did just about everything."

He recalls that his racing days were before they had pari-mutuels and before there were starting gates.

"They used to stretch an elastic band across the track then release one end of it when they were ready to go. Sometimes a nervous horse wouldn't settle down and would be standing on his hind legs looking the wrong way when it started."

"And there were plenty of bookies. They used to have their little sheds or shacks lined up inside of the fence. I remember once at Chicago when an owner was shot and killed by a bookie. Because of that they banned the bookies from the area. Then they set up shop three miles out in Lake Michigan, running boats for customers. But they didn't get much business and the idea soon faded."

HE SAYS there were cases of doping and other shady practices which soon brought controls and led to chemical and other tests used everywhere today.

Like any veteran jockey, he has had his share of spills. "I still get stiff now and then," he says, massaging his back. "One time in Hot Springs, Arkansas in '97 a horse spread-eagled on me right in the middle of a wet track. It took me awhile to get over that one."

Always ready for a dare, he recalls that he never could turn down a bet. "I took a bet

one time down in Arkansas to ride an ostrich. I just jumped on and clamped my hands around his neck. He gave me a real good run, plenty fast, and when he came around by the fence I just jumped off and collected my bet, no worse for the ride."

His long career as a jockey took him all over the U.S. and into Mexico and Cuba. He remembers riding a short season in San Francisco.

This was at the old Bay District Track which was located near Arguello Boulevard in the Richmond District of San Francisco. This track was closed in May, 1896.

THEN AS NOW, making the weight as a jockey was always a problem, he says. At age 33 he found it too difficult and gave it up to become a salesman, a profession he followed for many years.

He now divides his time between Los Angeles and San Francisco, staying alternately with a son and daughter. Of his five children, three are living. He has 18 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

"Now, I don't think any of them will be jockeys," he said. "They're too big. But maybe they'll jockey some of those space rockets they're buildin' nowadays."

EL CAMINO LEADS LEAGUE

Terra Nova Snaps Losing Streak

Mike Bohn rates a special asterisk in the Terra Nova High School baseball record book today.

The Tigers' hurler pitched a two-hitter to end the longest win famine in North Peninsula League history.

The Tigers had lost 19 straight NPL games over a period of two years until Bohn blanked South San Francisco High School, 7-0 on the Coastside.

In other NPL games, Oceana trimmed Westmoor, 7-3, while Jefferson shut out Half Moon Bay, 2-0. El Camino, the NPL leader with a 2-0 record, used a bye date to whip San Mateo, 4-2, in a practice game here.

Bohn allowed only two singles—one by Jim Henry in the second and another by Larry Astorlin in the fifth. Only one South San Francisco base runner reached third. That was Vince Olson, who coaxed the only walk off Bohn and then stole two bases. Bohn fanned nine batters. The losing pitcher was Bob Aurigemma, who was knocked out of the box in the fifth. The Tigers sent him to the showers with six hits for all seven of their runs.

Mike Reynolds, Bill McPhillips, Mike Castro, Jim Sukosky and Jim Brenahan provided most of the offensive punch for Terra Nova. Reynolds hit a bases empty homer in the third. McPhillips drove in a pair of runs with a single in the fourth, while Castro got two hits, a single and a run-producing 350-foot double in the second inning. Sukosky singled twice, driving in one run, and Brenahan hit a pair of singles sending one run across in the second.

Larry Tellez' bases loaded triple in the bottom of the sixth inning allowed Oceana to come from a 3-2 score to beat Westmoor. Berg Ramirez hit a two-run homer for the winners in the fourth frame. Greg Agar hit a bases-empty home for Westmoor. Max Tellez went all the way for the winners.

Jerry Benson was Jefferson's batting hero. He got the Indians one run in the second when he singled, stole second, took third on a wild pitch and dented the plate on a throwing error. In the fourth he doubled a run across.

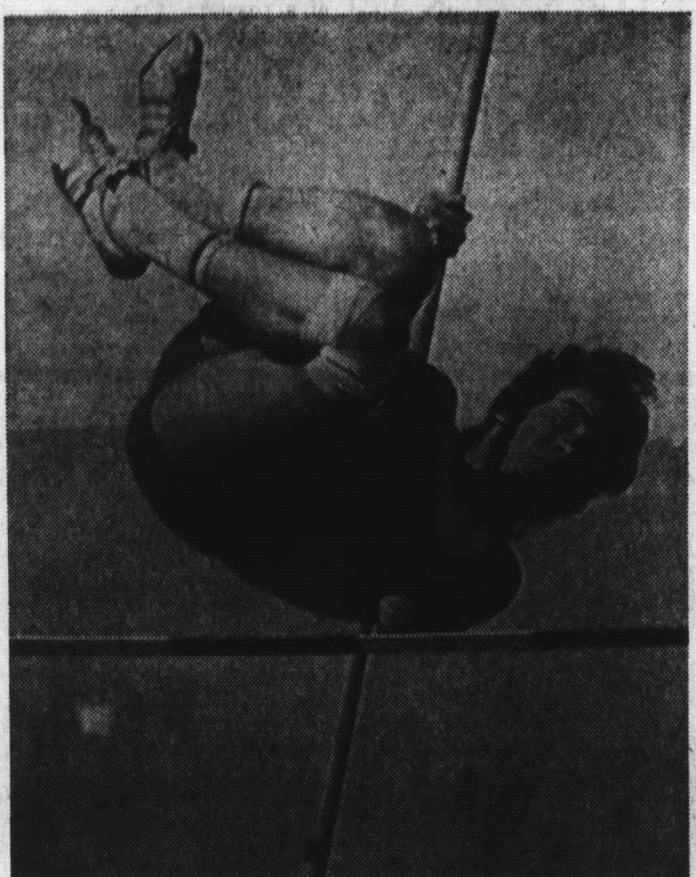

Jeff pitcher Tom Pritchard spread six hits to blank the Cougars, but was out-pitched by Larry Abbott. Abbott allowed only three hits and fanned 11 batters.

El Camino parlayed five walks into three runs in the second inning, and that was enough to beat San Mateo. The Colts added an insurance run in the third on a walk, stolen base and two errors.

Mike Preito singled home a run for San Mateo in the third and pinchhitter John Fleming repeated the feat in the seventh.

Ill-Fated Vault

IT'S NO WONDER South San Francisco High School varsity pole vaulter Norm Zelaya has a hurt look on his face as he clears the bar in last Friday's track meet with El Camino. He hurt his heel on the takeoff for this vault and could not compete any further. The Warriors crushed their intricacy rivals, 75-49. (Post-Times Photo)

Sugar... 'n' Spice

By NELL NORTON

MY MAIL has been most interesting this past week. Some letters requesting recipes that had appeared in the column that the writer had cut out and lost. Which pleased me greatly, for it's mighty nice to know that you good cooks are clipping and trying the recipes.

I'll quote from the letter, "I wonder if you or any of your readers have a recipe for soft dough pretzels? The pretzels are soft when eaten, not crisp. A friend of mine asked me about them. He says he thinks it's a German recipe and they used to be available in the St. Louis area. I had never heard of them, but I immediately thought of your column and promised I'd write and ask."

How about it? Do any of you good cooks know of such a pretzel? And even more important do you have the recipe that you would be willing to share with us? I hope so, for I'm a pretzel fancier and would love to try a soft dough pretzel.

The mention of a German recipe made me think of a delicious dish that I'd like to share with you. This is tasty way. I baked it in a round, deep oven-ware bowl a cabbage pudding, served in an unusual and very and when it turned out, it held its shape nicely.

This is a generous recipe and requires a large baking dish. Be sure to drain the juices from the baking dish before you turn it out onto the serving dish. The gravy is very thin as it consists of the juices that cook from the meat and vegetable; the lemon juice and capers give it just the right tartness.

KOHL PUDDING

(German Cabbage Pudding)

- 1 large head of cabbage
- 1 1/2 lbs. ground meat
- 1/2 lb. pork sausage
- 2 onions, chopped
- 1 egg
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 cup bread crumbs
- 1 can tomato sauce
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/4 cup capers

Cut cabbage in six pieces and cook in boiling water about ten minutes. Mix ground meat, pork sausage, onions, egg, nutmeg, garlic salt and bread crumbs.

Melt one tablespoon butter and butter baking dish with it. Arrange a layer of cabbage in bottom of dish, next a layer of the meat mixture, alternate layers, ending with cabbage on top.

Pour the can of tomato sauce over all. Bake in 325-degree oven for about 1 1/4 hours.

Drain the juices from the baking dish and add lemon juice and capers. Invert the baking dish over a larger serving plate and the pudding will slip out. Serve with rye bread and fluffy mashed potatoes.

SINCE WE ARE thinking about German food I'll finish off the column with a recipe for a cheese kuchen. This kuchen is most delicious and worth the work of pressing cottage cheese through a sieve. For I must warn you that pressing cottage cheese through a sieve is a tedious business. However, I considered the results well worth the time it took.

CHEESE KUCHEN

- 1 1/2 Tbsp. butter
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 cup of flour, plus flour for handling
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar. Add the egg, and the baking powder and flour, which have been sifted together. Lastly add the vanilla. Blend well and press into a deep nine-inch greased pan. Patting with your fingers to fit nicely around the sides of the pan.

FILLING

- 1 lb. cottage cheese
- Three-fourths cup sugar
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 Tbsp. flour
- 3 egg yolks
- Juice of one-half lemon
- 1/4 tsp. almond extract
- 3 stiffly beaten egg whites

Press the cottage cheese through a sieve and add sugar, milk, flour, egg yolks, lemon juice and almond extract. Blend. Fold in the beaten egg whites and pour into pastry lined pan. Sprinkle with cinnamon.

Bake for five minutes in 400-degree oven, then reduce heat to 350-degrees and bake about 45 minutes longer.

THE AMOUNT OF milk called for in the cheese cake cookie recipe that appeared last week is two tablespoons.

The Newlyweds

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR GATES

Cathleen Loftin, Marries Arthur Bernard Gates

Saint Bruno's Church was the setting for the marriage of Cathleen Ann Loftin and Arthur Bernard Gates recently. The couple repeated vows at 2 p.m. before receiving felicitations at Carpenters Hall.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Loftin of Sunnyvale. She is an alumna of Capuchino High School and attended Foothill College. She was escorted to the altar by her father.

The benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlotte Gates of San Bruno. He also graduated from Capuchino High School and attended College of San Mateo.

For her marriage, Cathleen chose a white floor-length chiffon gown with empire-style bodice and train. Narrow bands of lace bordered the skirt. Her shoulder-length veil was gathered into a pearl decorated crown. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were Joan Loftin, Sally Kelly and Cathy April. The attendants wore aqua floor-length chiffon dresses with matching veils and carried yellow rose bouquets. Miss Loftin, maid of honor, was gowned in pink floor-length chiffon with a matching veil. She also carried yellow roses.

The benedict was attended by Douglas Sievers, best man;

CHARTER DUE

Kiwanis Club Is Formed in D.C.

A new community service club with an old tradition has been formed in Daly City and will receive its official charter 45 days from next Tuesday.

The Kiwanis Club of Daly City-Colma, which has been in the organizational stage for over a month, is now firmly established in the North County city.

The unit has already elected its officers for the year. They include: Herbert Cahn, president; Edward Bucher, first vice president; Donald Waite, second vice president; John Ingles, secretary, and Edgar Sawhney, treasurer.

A seven-member board has been established. It is made up of William Titus, Guido Barragan, Alfred Urbanus, Michael McDonald, Raymond Welch, J. Paul Coan and Dr. Robert Brodsky.

Cahn said Wednesday that the club has been formed in Daly City because of "the growth of Daly City." He stated that "Kiwanis felt that the city was so big that the organization (Kiwanis) needed representation in the city."

Kiwanis was founded in 1916 in Detroit and now numbers over 325,000 members in units all over the world.

In the California-Nevada-Hawaii district, of which the Daly

City club is now a part, there are 502 chapters of Kiwanis and over 28,000 members according to Director of New Clubs Clyde Hurley of San Francisco.

There are presently six Kiwanis clubs in San Mateo County. Daly City's group will be the seventh.

Each club is autonomous but Kiwanis headquarters are located in Chicago.

The main function of the club is community service. Membership is open to business and professional people.

The club's motto is "Volunteer work to youth, community and nation."

The new Daly City chapter will meet at noon every Tuesday at Toto's Restaurant on Junipero Serra Boulevard in Daly City.

Ballot Lists Statements

Sample ballots were received by Pacifica residents this week. A general municipal election Tuesday will be held for three City Council seats and on three ballot proposals.

Nine council candidates list their statements of qualifications on the sample ballots.

Basil Gladioux is the only candidate who offers a written argument with the sample ballot on the three municipal ballot proposals. His reasons for opposing the measures have been countered by Mayor James Fox in a recent written refutation, approved by fellow councilmen.

Statements range from, "Let George do it," (George Mason) to "Vote Wright," (Frank Wright).

Trio Held in Forgery Case

A San Mateo couple and their San Francisco friend were arrested in South San Francisco last week as alleged forgers. Robert Lee Short, 36, 150 North Railroad Avenue, and his wife Elaine, 27, a housemaid, were arrested with Bobby Carter, 36, San Francisco, after White Front Store officers became suspicious. South San Francisco police said the three were attempting to cash a check, which proved to have been one of 3,000 checks stolen in January in a Contra Costa county business burglary. Arresting Officer Robert Tamm and Detective Jack Rhodes said the trio would be charged with attempting to pass a fictitious check, and are under further investigation regarding the Contra Costa burglary.

Officers said the checks taken in the Contra Costa burglary were obsolete checks being thrown away by the business firms involved. They had been printed for:

Sacramento Bowl Corporation, Monterey Bowl Corporation, Berkeley Bowl Corporation, Bay Point Project, Bay Point Light & Power, and the Appraisal Company of California. All are for accounts at the Concord branch, Bank of America.

Rail Gates

Save Lives

Operation of automatic gates at all railroad-highway grade crossings of Southern Pacific between San Francisco and San Jose paid high dividends during 1965 in preventing accidents and saving lives, the California Public Utilities Commission announced today.

Frederick B. Holoboff, commission president, said that at the 60 grade crossings on the Peninsula which are traversed daily by 75 high speed trains, there were only five accidents in 1965 and six the year before, although the area is one of the most heavily populated in the state.

Fatalities at grade crossings were two in 1965 and none the year before.

State-wide, installation of automatic protection for the public was escalated during the past year, Holoboff said. Improved warning signals went into operation at 214 crossings in 1965, of which 103 were automatic gates the most effective protection short of elimination of a crossing. This was a substantial increase over 1964 when there were 185 installation of better signals, of which only 62 were gates.

Holoboff said that the speedup in improved protection is at least partially responsible for the 24.4 per cent drop in fatal accidents throughout the state in 1965 compared with the previous year.

Butano Falls On Directory

The annual edition of the most widely distributed book in San Mateo County rolled off the presses to its subscribers last week.

It's the Pacific Telephone directory for San Mateo County (except Brisbane, Colma and Daly City), according to local manager J. E. (Jim) Freeman. Featuring a cover picture of secluded Butano Falls, the 1392 page book is being released to 232,500 locations—an increase of 12,500 over last year.

Statistically, the directory this year carries 155,303 alphabetical white page listings on 448 pages, have 32 green page index listings and 912 yellow classified pages. The alphabetical listings increased by 4622.

All three sections are larger than those in the 1965 edition, the white by 32 pages, the green by eight pages and the yellow by 16, Freeman said.

To print the big book, Pacific Telephone used 194 tons of white paper, 14 tons of green and 395 tons of yellow for the edition. By adding 14 tons of cover stock, the total reached 617 tons of paper, up 52 tons from the previous year.

INSTANT GOURMET FARE is possible, says a famous chef, with today's packaged gravy mixes and judicious use of wine. Here, pork chops are lifted to "haute cuisine" in wine gravy.

Chef Uses Wine In Gravy Mixes

Packaged gravy mixes, take it from the chef of a famous New York restaurant, are flavorful news for housewives out to conquer the secrets of wine cookery or transform daily fare into a gourmet treat.

Chef Phillip Haultcoeur, who presides over the kitchen of Vol-sin restaurant, points out that the remarkable sauces and gravies of haute cuisine need a vast array of condiments and four days to a week to render flavor from stockbones. Rare is the homemaker with the time, the ingredients, or the inclination to tackle such a task.

But the convenience mixes make it all very simple, he says.

"Now you buy the sauce mix in a handy package, and for extra magic add a touch of wine."

Chef Phillip reached this conclusion after test kitchens invited him to experiment with their packaged gravy mixes—brown, onion, mushroom, and chicken. He doesn't expect these to replace traditional methods in Vol-sin's kitchen where a corps of master chefs is always on hand, but he's enthusiastic over their possibilities in the home.

To Chef Phillip's way of thinking, good wine also belongs in the picture, "in the kitchen as well as on the table." He gives high praise to the best of California wines, and asserting that one mark of a good gravy mix is that it will preserve in full the taste marriage between savory food and the art of the grape.

To demonstrate the point, he showed how to make a delicious Chicken Tetrazzini, using chicken gravy mix to which he added a half cup of Grey Riesling, a fairly dry white wine.

The chef says to follow the same common-sense rules for wine in the kitchen as in the dining room—red wine with red meat, game, cheese, or spaghetti; white wine with white meats like seafoods, fish, poultry, eggs, and veal.

Below is his recipe for pork chops with wine gravy that clearly proves his thesis. He adds a quarter cup of red claret to the brown gravy mix and recommends serving the dish on a bed of rice with the remainder of the wine, at room temperature in tulip-shaped glasses.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI
¾ pound spaghetti
1 cup fresh mushrooms, cut in julienne strips
4 tablespoons butter
3 to 4 pound roasting chicken
3 pints water
2 teaspoons salt
2 envelopes (1½ oz. each) Chicken Gravy Mix
Parmesan cheese
Break spaghetti into 1½ inch pieces; cook in boiling salted water. Cool under running cold water; drain. Cook mushrooms in 2 tablespoons butter until tender; combine with cooked spaghetti. Place spaghetti in deep 3-quart casserole leaving a well in the middle. Cook chicken in 3 pints water to which salt has been added. Cool chicken in stock. Remove meat from bones, saving stock, and dice. Heat meat in remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Stir in enve-

PORK CHOPS WITH WINE GRAVY

6 loin pork chops, about ¾-inch thick
¾ teaspoon salt
Black pepper to taste
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon shortening
1½ cups cold water
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 envelope (¾ oz.) brown gravy mix
¼ cup claret wine
4 cups hot buttered rice
1 orange, cut in wedges
Sprinkle chops with salt, pepper, and flour. In skillet over low heat, brown chops on both sides in hot shortening (takes about 20 minutes). Spoon off excess fat as it accumulates. Add ¾ cup water, onion, and Worcestershire sauce. Cover. Simmer chops slowly about 45 minutes or until fork-tender and well done, turning them several times during cooking. Remove chops and keep hot while making gravy. Add remaining cup water to pan. Stir in gravy mix; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add wine and heat to boiling. Serve chops on bed of hot rice. Garnish with wedges of orange. Serve with gravy. Six servings.

Party Steak Use Round, Seasoning

It's not only the tender steaks which can come to a party. Beef round steak, when cooked properly and seasoned with a dash of flair, will also be a hit.

Though considered in the less tender category of meat cuts, beef round steak is popular and can be made tender. Brown it first, add a small amount of liquid along with gourmet type seasonings. Cover tightly and cook slowly until it is tender.

Steak type foods like French fried potatoes, a tossed salad and Fudge Cake.

Party Steak
1 beef round steak, cut 1-inch thick
¼ cup lard or drippings
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon fresh, coarsely ground pepper
2 beef bouillon cubes
1 cup hot water
1½ cups chopped onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
¾ teaspoon oregano
1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup drained, cooked tomatoes
Flour for gravy, if necessary
Combine flour, salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Dredge steak in seasoned flour. Brown meat on both sides in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Dissolve bouillon cubes in water. Add bouillon, onion, garlic, oregano and Worcestershire sauce to meat. Cover tightly and simmer 1½ to 2 hours or until tender. Add tomatoes and heat 5 minutes. Thicken cooking liquid with flour for gravy, if necessary. 4 to 6 servings.

REDWOOD CITY — Popular, economical beef can help cost-conscious housewives brighten up family dinner menus, reports the California Beef Council.

The council currently is conducting an in-store promotion campaign featuring beef in "Family Dinner" menus. Four color banners depicting beef pot roast, meat loaf, corned beef and Swiss steak are being offered free to markets throughout the United States for posting at meat counters. Banners are available in two sizes: 16 by 22 inches and eight by 17 inches.

Meat managers can get their free beef promotional kits by writing to the California Beef Council, 463 Brewster Avenue, Redwood City, California. Colorful cards featuring beef recipes in a variety of menus are always available free of charge from the beef council. The California Beef Council display materials is being made available in other states through the co-operation of the Beef Industry Council of the National Livestock and Meat Board, and local beef promotional organizations and cow-belle groups. Markets located outside California can obtain display kits through their local beef promotion organizations or by contacting the Beef Industry Council, National Livestock and Meat Board, 36 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago 60603. The California Beef Council was organized nine years ago to promote demand for beef and beef products. ## Traditional Easter Services Ready on Mount Davidson

Sunrise comes to San Francisco at 5:42 on Easter morning. And thousands of people are planning to attend the 44th annual Easter sunrise service on Mount Davidson, which begins at sunrise with a trumpet fanfare.

For the first time in many years, a layman will deliver the sermon.

It is Judge Joseph G. Kennedy, president of the San Francisco Council of Churches, and a member of Jones Methodist Church. He will speak on the subject, "Lest We Forget."

Another layman, Kenneth Gillespie, of Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, Daly City, will also participate in the service. Clergymen participating include the Rev. Thomas Dietrich, Howard Presbyterian Church; the Rev. K. Fillmore Gray, Temple Methodist Church; the Rev. Donald Jee, Park Presidio Baptist Church and the Rev. Donald Hawk, St. Andrew's Lutheran Church. The Rev. Douglas Siden of the American Baptist Churches of Northern California will narrate the event.

Special music this year will include two solos by Rosalyn Repholz, member of the San Francisco Opera Company. Congregational singing will be led by Willet Wiggins, baritone. Robert Walker Jr. will be the organist.

The San Francisco Council of Churches, under whose auspices this annual event is held, has announced that once again the Boy Scouts will act as ushers to assist people in their hike to the mountain top.

The Muni will run additional buses and streetcars to accommodate the crowds.

The entire service will be broadcast live and direct by radio station KGO.

Adventists Hear Talk

The Pacifica Seventh-day Adventist Church members were honored to have Elder Pohan, Missionary-minister (retired) of San Francisco, as their guest speaker last Saturday.

A. Clegg Rees, director of lay activities for the Pacifica church, announced that the group has purchased a piano and 50 church hymnals and that the building fund is growing. The Central Conference has started the procedure to vote the Pacifica group to be a full fledged church. It is the only Seventh-day Adventist church on the coastside to serve its members.

Services are now being held at the St. Edmund's Episcopal Church, 1500 Perez Drive, Linda Mar, every Saturday morning at 9:30 a.m.

Good Friday Service Set

Good Friday services will be held at Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Fairmont of Pacifica at 8 p.m.

A unique form of Communion will be celebrated as families will be seated around tables for the entire one hour service. A candle light setting will be used with Good Friday symbols decorating the tables.

Easter services at Bethlehem will be held at 9 and 11 a.m. with the theme "I Don't Believe It!" Bethlehem Luther League will join the youth from Westlake Lutheran in attending the sunrise service at Mount Davidson.

An Easter breakfast will be served to them following the service, according to Steele Spangler, president.

17th Annual Service Set For Workers

The Rev. Albert Burroughs, executive secretary of the California and Nevada District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will be the guest speaker at the 17th annual San Francisco downtown Good Friday service to be held at 1 p.m. in the Curran Theater at 445 Geary Street.

This service is for the convenience of downtown workers who want to attend church from noon to 3 p.m. Reverend Burroughs' topic will be: "Yes, the Cross Decides."

Special music will be provided by the children's choir of St. John's School and the adult choir of St. John's Lutheran Church of San Francisco. Both choirs will be directed by Daniel Frerking.

The presentation will be during the evening service on Easter, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at Bethel.

The story gives the possible reactions of Barabbas and his household to Christ's crucifixion and resurrection.

It carries the essence of the Gospel message, and one cannot escape the truth that Christ died not only in Barabbas' stead, but in yours and mine as well.

The cast will be as follows: Cheryl Heitman as Dorcas (wife of Barabbas); Paula Ehren as Mother Anna (mother of one of the thieves); Sue Cushing as Mary Magdalene; Yvonne Wilson as Judith (wife of one of the thieves); John Canales as John Mark; Sharon Heitman as Sara (sister to Barabbas); Paul Wilson as Barabbas (prisoner released by Pilate).

Passover's History

(The traditional Jewish festival of the Passover is described by Rabbi Solomon A. Shore of Congregation B'nai Israel of Daly City.)

By RABBI SOLOMAN A. SHORE

JEWISH PEOPLE throughout the world are celebrating this week the Passover Festival which is based upon the Biblical narration of the Exodus of the ancient Israelites from Egypt.

Moses, who became the spokesman for the Jewish minority in Egypt argued and pleaded with the king of that land to grant the Israelites, his brethren, who were enslaved and treated with great cruelty, permission to go out to the desert to worship the God of the Hebrews.

The answer to the plea of Moses was always negative; each time Pharaoh refused to let the Hebrews go, God would punish him with a plague.

Nine times Moses and his brother Aaron had appeared and the answer had always been "no" until the tenth plague hovered over the land of Egypt, with the first born of every Egyptian family dying, then and only then, did the king grant the Hebrews permission to leave the land of Egypt in haste.

IT WAS because of the hasty departure of the 600,000 slaves that matzo, rather than the usual bread, was eaten and before long all of the great mass of old and young men were on the march toward the promised land that God had promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob to become the everlasting inheritance of the Jewish people.

The first Passover took place about 3,000 years ago. Yet, it remained the most important Jewish holiday throughout the centuries, both religiously and historically.

The crossing of the Red Sea was so miraculous an event that generation kept on repeating the story of the Exodus of Egypt as the greatest event in Jewish history having established the fact that it was God who freed the Israelites from bondage.

THE SEDER night on Passover is an unusual event. It is both banquet and synagogue. In the course of the evening large groups of people get together and in an orderly manner go through the entire story of the Passover event.

The tradition and customs that go with the Jewish Passover are indeed filled with pageantry. Old and young participate either reciting the stories in Hebrew or English, chanting and singing ancient melodies.

Historically, however, the adage of "Let my people go" has become more than a story about the slaves of Egypt. Today, we have many millions of people throughout the world who are still not free.

The ideal of human freedom is no longer a Jewish matter, it surely transcends all boundaries and all countries.

MILLIONS of Jews throughout the world are desirous of seeing a new world order in which all human beings shall be free to live according to their religious beliefs.

"Let my people go" is no longer a Jewish "issue," it is a world issue.

COMMENT

Ballew, Minshew, Gust Merit Vote

THE CITY OF PACIFICA has now been incorporated for nine years and, by coincidence, has a total of nine candidates seeking election to the council on April 12. Three council seats are open.

The large number of candidates shows a high degree of civic consciousness on the part of Pacificans. Included in the list of candidates are two elected incumbent councilmen, one appointed incumbent, one former councilman, and two others who have lost in previous elections. They represent a wide scope of opinions—some very much at odds.

AFTER CAREFUL study and analysis, The Post has determined upon recommending to its Pacifica readers the re-election of the two elected incumbents, Councilmen Fred Ballew and Harland Minshew, and, as a third choice, the election of a long-time resident and civic leader, Candidate Nick Gust.

Ballew and Minshew, completing first terms on the council, have proved to be both cool and wise in the conduct of city affairs. Both have shown the strength necessary to deal with the pressure tactics sometimes exerted against a council, and ability to get on with the major business of the city despite distracting issues.

Gust has lived in the north coastal area since 1927, has been a successful businessman for the past 19 years, and active in many civic affairs. During the early development of Pacifica he was once actually elected to a prospective city council but was prevented from serving when the concurrent incorporation issue failed to pass.

He is a veteran. His program calls for business-like administration of the city and better co-ordination between all city departments and officials.

ALL THREE of these recommended candidates favor the passage of the three ballot proposals on which Pacificans will also vote on April 12 and which appear well-planned and important to the progress of the city.

The course of the future is far more important to Pacifica than the disputes and mistakes of the past. That is why The Post believes that the people of the city will best serve themselves by re-electing Fred Ballew and Harland Minshew, and electing Nick Gust.

San Bruno Should Retain Incumbents

SAN BRUNO is in the healthy position of having five good candidates for the three council seats to be contested at its city election.

Three of them, however, are incumbents and represent, to the careful-minded voter, the advantage of tried public officials over untied aspirants to office. Incumbents, too, have the added advantage of their experience in city government and their first-hand knowledge of current civic needs and the measures taken to fill them.

Oldest of the three in terms of council service is Nel J. Christal who was first elected in 1962 and who has twice subsequently been mayor of the city. Christal is an attorney-at-law and his professional knowledge has been useful to the city. He has a succinct manner of statement and has repeatedly shown the ability to analyze civic issues in the degree of their real importance.

GEORGE INGHAM was appointed to the council two years ago and had a prior record of civic service as a member of the planning commission. He is also a former acting postmaster of San Bruno and was on the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce for five years. He is an advocate of the "pay-as-you-go" policy and of sound fiscal operations.

Karney Barberian, also appointed to the council two years ago, had previously served the city on both the planning and recreation commission and has been active in public service and philanthropic projects. Semi-retired from a contracting and insurance career, he is able to devote much of his time to city affairs.

The two other candidates have merit and sincerity, but do not have impressive records of public service. THE POST-TIMES, therefore, while conscious that the incumbents are not always in complete agreement, believes that San Bruno voters would show wisdom by continuing them in office.

It recommends the re-election of Neil J. Christal and the election of George Ingham and Karney Barberian.

South San Francisco Needs Ahern and Rocca

THE POST-TIMES recommends to its South San Francisco readers the re-election of Incumbent Councilmen Patrick Ahern and Andrew Rocca at the impending city election.

These two men stand out in the field of seven candidates for a number of reasons in addition to those of their experience and their long and satisfactory service to the people of South San Francisco.

During their terms of office the city has had a substantial decrease in tax rate reflected in savings and economy beyond the change of assessments. During the same period the city has grown both industrially and in population.

A number of accomplishments of long-term importance to South San Francisco have been achieved, including a new library and emergency operating center, a successful marina, modification of the sewage plant, and other street and public works projects.

FROM A STANDPOINT of civic interest it speaks well that five other candidates have offered themselves for election. But, in the long run, success is the best index of success, and the incumbents have proved themselves.

The Post-Times takes the position that South San Franciscans will find themselves better off with councilmen who have been tried and who have furnished evidence of their ability. Vote for the re-election of Patrick Ahern and Andrew Rocca.

A Warning On Oil Investments

Lorene Beasley

THERE IS actually nothing fraudulent about the advertisements placed by oil brokers in newspapers and magazines in California and other southwestern states.

A United States citizen can go into the oil business, as the advertisements read, for as little as $25 down. There is always a remote chance of becoming an oil millionaire and the oil broker plays on the gambling instincts of the public.

Anticipating the time when western and southwestern areas of the United States would become states, the federal government reserved for itself some four million acres for public land. This land is today administered by the Department of the Interior. The policy is to lease the acreage to companies or individuals for a nominal sum per acre, with the provision that, if oil is found in commercial quantities, the government will receive a royalty of 12½ per cent of whatever revenue the wells eventually produce.

The government is very interested in having these lands explored and developed for oil in order to increase the national resources.

FEDERAL LAW limits any one company from buying more than 46,080 acres of public land in a state. However, it does permit a company to take options on up to 200,000 additional acres of land leased by others.

Oil brokers are able to lease large areas of land by taking advantage of the provision in the leasing act that permits a lessee to assign any part of his holdings to another. The brokers subdivide these areas into smaller plots and then re-lease the areas at substantial profits.

The oil broker makes it possible for an individual to lease less than the minimum 640 acres requirement. He also makes it possible to purchase the oil land lease on an installment basis. On a $100 lease, the individual can pay $25 down and $20 a month for the next four months. All profits go to the individual lease holders should the oil land turn out to be good.

The oil broker takes care of the paper work involved in obtaining leases. This includes the search of records of available oil lands and the filing of such claims in land offices.

FOR 50 CENTS AN acre, plus a $10 filing fee, an individual investor can lease a minimum of 640 acres of oil land for three years. He has the same oil rights that any big company enjoys. If he happens to be lucky enough to have oil found on or near his property, he is in the position of being able to negotiate with the big oil boys. He can drill his own wells if he wishes to.

The individual's chances of striking oil are not greatly improved by the oil broker's services even though the broker advertises that he is in position to pick the likeliest locations.

To make a fortune from oil on public lands the individual must be lucky, as in a grab bag, in the selection of his lease from the millions of acres available. Should an investor hit the million-to-one chance, the cash bonus paid by oil companies usually runs from $1 to $10 an acre if the investor wants to dispose of his interests.

It is only when oil has actually been discovered on or near, termed a "hot area" that the individual can expect big money in return for assigning his lease. Royalties are not paid unless oil in commercial quantities is actually produced from a well erected within the boundaries of the investor's land.

BETTER BUSINESS Bureau warns that there is a much greater chance of the investor losing his entire investment than his making a fabulous fortune.

Now It's The Super Skunk!

Don Miller

It's Skunk time in Northern California. Not that four-footed rascal with the flag pole tail and the sporty white stripe but a skunk that has wheels and runs on a timetable and has become such an institution in California that you wonder how anything with such a dubious name could become so popular.

This institution, as most of you travel bugs know, is a railroad train that snakes its way through some of the wildest, most inaccessible redwood country in the state—so remote, in some places, that the only really feasible way of getting in among the towering giants is via the Skunk.

The Skunk's master is the California Western Railroad (we'll never forget THAT because we once said it was the Western Pacific) and the CWR, in turn, is owned by the Union Lumber Company—the landlord of much of the country the Skunk passes through.

The Skunk meanders along a 40-mile route between Fort Bragg and Willits that has more twists and bends than a raveled-up telephone cord. It rolls over 32 bridges and trestles that carry the tracks back and forth over the Noyo River as if the two were playing tag.

It also runs through two tunnels and has its work cut out for it, for the route rises 1,690 feet in elevation after leaving Fort Bragg.

THE SKUNK got its name sometime after 1925 when the CWR began to run self-powered railcars that used gasoline engines. The cars replaced coaches that had been pulled by steam locomotives. Passenger patronage had dwindled so that it was no longer economical to put together a full-fledged train.

As the CWR points out in its promotional literature, the gas engines on the self-powered railcars were on the odoriferous side, and passengers waiting at station stops would quip: "You can smell 'em before you can see 'em!"

Later on, the Skunk became a diesel-powered car and it began to build a reputation as one of the most spectacular ways of seeing the heart of California's redwood country. In time, more Skunks were added and the railroad launched an ambitious public-relations program to attract tourists, railroad fans and just plain lovers of the out-of-doors to its pretzel route along the Noyo.

SO GOOD HAD business become during the tourist season that last year, the CWR decided to buy an old steam engine and revive the days when steam behemoths huffed through the countryside and the mournful hoot of steam whistles echoed off thickly forested hillsides.

The railroad immediately dubbed the steam engine, built in 1920, and purchased from an Oregon logging railroad, the Super Skunk and in the manner of Disneyland's shortline steam railroad, gave it a bright coat of red paint on its wheels, its engine cab and its tender.

The color horrifies the true railroad fan who insists on authenticity when it comes to his avocation but we'll side with the non-traditionalists in this case. The Skunk's coat of red, together with its perky trademark—a caricature of a skunk wearing a conductor's hat—adds just the right touch.

To go with the Super Skunk, the CWR rummaged around and discovered four vintage passenger coaches that the Erie Lackawanna Railroad back East didn't want any more. They had been used in commute service.

The cars were refurbished and also given a bright splash of red. And the whole business—Super Skunk and its yesteryear coaches—were put into operation in July of last year.

Well, it was like spreading a layer of extra rich frosting on an already rich cake for if the self-powered diesel Skunks had been quite a hit, then the steam-powered Skunk had become an absolute smash—so much so that the railroad is now looking for a second steam engine as a reserve for the first.

WE HAD AN occasion to join a special rail fan excursion on the Super Skunk the other day and came away with a vivid idea of what it must have been like a quarter century ago when logging operations and steam locomotives were almost synonymous in Northern California.

For the excursion, the CWR strung together the Super Skunk, a box car, a flat car, a gondola and a caboose. Passengers rode either in the caboose with its limited capacity or in the open-air gondola with its wooden benches and an untrammeled view of the Noyo and the redwoods on all sides.

Near the summit of the line, elevation 1,740 feet, the Super Skunk steamed onto a bypass spur to permit an ordinary Skunk to pass by on its way to Willits. (The CWR will continue to run the self-powered diesel cars, which make stops at the 13 stations between Fort Bragg and Willits for campers, hikers and cabin dwellers. The regular Super Skunk, on the other hand, stops only at Northspur, about half way along the line.)

The meeting of the Super Skunk and the Skunk, as expected, was a natural for photographers and if the people who make film could have been present, they would have declared a dividend right on the spot.

In fact, judging from this trip and what we've seen and heard all about these Skunks, the California Western is probably going to wind up being one of the most photographed railroads in the country.

Or should we say the most photographed skunk in the country?

A Teacher Speaks Out

Samuel Chandler

TODAY'S BIT comes from the biting pen of Constance Melaro.

"Judging from the confused adolescents who have been giving this generation of high school teachers a king-sized headache, it would seem that the educational principle of teaching 'the whole child' has fallen flat on its promising face. How the delightful adolescent of yesterday ever evolved into the strange creature found in our high schools today is subject enough for a lifetime of speculation..."

Is it any wonder that the number of dedicated teachers on any school staff can be counted on the fingers of one hand—or that the number of well-prepared, mentally and morally stable youngsters being turned out is not much greater?"

"I hold no brief for the teen-ager. He's too sharp. Modern communications give him access to too much information for anyone to excuse him by saying, 'It's not his fault; he doesn't know any better; he's too young'."

"That is plain nonsense! He has more opportunity than any generation in history to know better and most of the time he does. He would just rather take his chances on the consequences of his behavior than change it..."

ALL THIS from the pen of a classroom teacher—not a natural born hell raiser, like Max Rafferty, just a classroom teacher who represents thousands who have fled the teaching profession and thousands more who have remained—disgruntled and discouraged.

Miss Melaro's book is entitled "Bitter Harvest, The Odyssey of a Teacher." In it she charges that the refreshing sweet clean atmosphere of the war and pre-war years that the youngsters brought to the classroom has been killed by such factors as "blond disregard by school administration for existing problems and the inception of young-adult social life at the junior high level bringing on the thrills of the middle-teens too soon and depriving the 12-year-old set of the thrilling, exciting years that once brought him gently and surely to the brink of the greatest adventure of his life: adulthood.

"Today's students she writes 'live like adults and think like children. They are not easy to cope with. We teach them when they let us.'"

Today's teacher, "Bitter Harvest" contends, is taught that her challenge is greater because teen-agers have become "dull-eyed, scraggly haired girls and unkempt, unshaven boys," and teachers adore challenges. She must learn to live with her students little eccentricities until she cracks up or joins the treadmill to nowhere.

To present her thoughts more vividly Miss Melaro tells a story of a teacher she calls Loraine Perry who begins her career in a junior high school in Maryland, and passes from one school to another until she surrenders to the army of confused, emotionally unstable youngsters that continues to grow.

THE CLOSING paragraph contains these words: "We're in deep, serious trouble; we're afflicted with a severe lack of moral awareness, and the need for attention is no longer a matter for prudence, practicality or wisdom... We need help, all of us: your children, your schools, your teachers."

Are you listening? Do you hear us? Do you care?..."

Backyard Burning Is Meet Topic

The possibility of banning backyard burning at one and two-family dwellings is being considered in the formulation of further anti-smog controls now being studied and revised by subcommittees of the Bay Area Pollution Control District's Advisory Council, which met last week in the District Offices.

A three-man committee headed by Earl Jackson of Hayward was appointed at today's meeting to study the feasibility of eliminating backyard burning and to make recommendations to the Advisory Council.

Other members of the backyard burning committee are Philip J. Eldredge of San Carlos and Bruce Wiggins of San Jose.

Backyard burning at one and two-family dwellings in the Bay Area is currently exempted from the District's open burning regulations. Action by the Board of Directors, following public hearings, would be required to eliminate the exemption.

Progress in other areas of the proposed new anti-smog regulations is being made and

Also approved, with the condition that an advertising message be omitted, was a 24-foot high, lighted sign for the Dog House, Incorporated, at 280 El Camino Real.

Other commission action included approval of a tentative map of a portion of Unit One of the Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Industrial Park.

The commission refused to rescind an earlier resolution, recommending denial of a use permit for a new-car display lot at 12 Linden Avenue, after a flood of residents protested the proposed lot.

Westlake Is 'Unique'

"Westlake is extremely unique among shopping centers," according to James Trevor, who is something of an authority on the subject. Trevor bought the center from developer Henry Doelger just a year ago last Friday.

Westlake's uniqueness, Trevor said, stems from its "community spirit" and the fact that the center and surrounding area is actually a "self-contained community."

In terms of shopping center business, Trevor said, "Westlake can be little affected by what transpires outside the Westlake area."

While the shopping center is independent, its owner is aware of its important relationship to the rest of Daly City. "The expansion of Daly City and any additional commercial ventures will strengthen both the city and Westlake," he declared.

The only problem, he added, is that Westlake's center has no place to expand except into its parking lots—and the ratio of parking spaces to businesses can't be changed "without damaging the advantageous parking presently afforded."

At the present time, Trevor explained, the only plans for physical expansion of the center involve a possible enlargement of Penney's, which is still a few years off.

JAMES TREVOR

Economic expansion is another matter, however. In his first year as the center's owner, Trevor said, "The continual growth has exceeded my expectations."

With business booming, Trevor foresees no major alterations in the shopping center's operations. "Anything as successful as Westlake," he said, "one doesn't attempt to change."

He will continue, he added, to attend to the business of the center, while the Westlake Merchants' Association co-operates with his staff on the day-to-day operation.

And the center, Trevor said, will continue to be one of Daly City's biggest boosters, buying all of its goods and services from local merchants and contractors.

Looking back over his first year, Trevor declared, "The co-operation of every single Daly City official and merchant has been most gratifying."

For the future, he said, he plans a "continuation of the policies originated by Henry Doelger."

Financial Kit Offered By Savings Firm

In order to aid the public in successful financial planning, American Savings and Loan Association of California has developed a family financial planning kit, according to R. Mike Brubaker, manager of American Savings' office at 5 Southgate Avenue in Daly City.

The kits will be available at all branches of America Savings in Northern California, Brubaker said.

"Income tax time," he said, "when money and how it was handled during the year becomes of paramount importance is the time to complete financial planning for the coming year. That's why we are making these kits available through our branches at this time."

The financial planning kit was designed by a nationally recognized authority on family finance, Charles Neal, who is financial reporter for CBS radio, an author, investment advisor, and licensed financial counselor.

The kit contains eight sections, which take the experienced or inexperienced planner through all the necessary control points of his financial picture.

The first section provides an overview of the personal financial picture, and subsequent sections cover the savings and investment program, debts or liabilities progress, insurance analysis.

Cow Palace Wins Round

The State Senate Finance Committee has approved a budget allocation of $1.6-million that would permit the Cow Palace to improve its facilities.

Representatives of Oakland and Alameda Counties opposed the action. They said the state should not finance competition for the new Oakland Sports Arena, now under construction and scheduled to be completed in the fall.

L. C. Smith, chairman of the board of directors of the Cow Palace, told the Finance Committee: "We are getting tougher competition and we have to have something to sell."

VANGUARD OF 21,000 MOVES IN

Serramonte Is Showing Signs of Things to Come

Homes, Roads Shop Center Being Built

By DON MILLER

WITH ITS yellow promotional flags fluttering in the breeze and the sound of carpenters' hammers filling the air, Serramonte, Daly City's new 900-acre subdivision, is beginning to take on the appearance of the planned community it's designed to be.

To date, about 185 families or about 600 persons have moved into Serramonte—the vanguard of some 21,000 people the developers predict will be living there when the last home and apartment have been occupied.

At that time, the subdivision will include a huge regional shopping center, at least one neighborhood shopping complex, a medical building, churches, schools, parks and playgrounds.

It will be served by a network of new city streets and by two new freeways — Junipero Serra and Cabrillo.

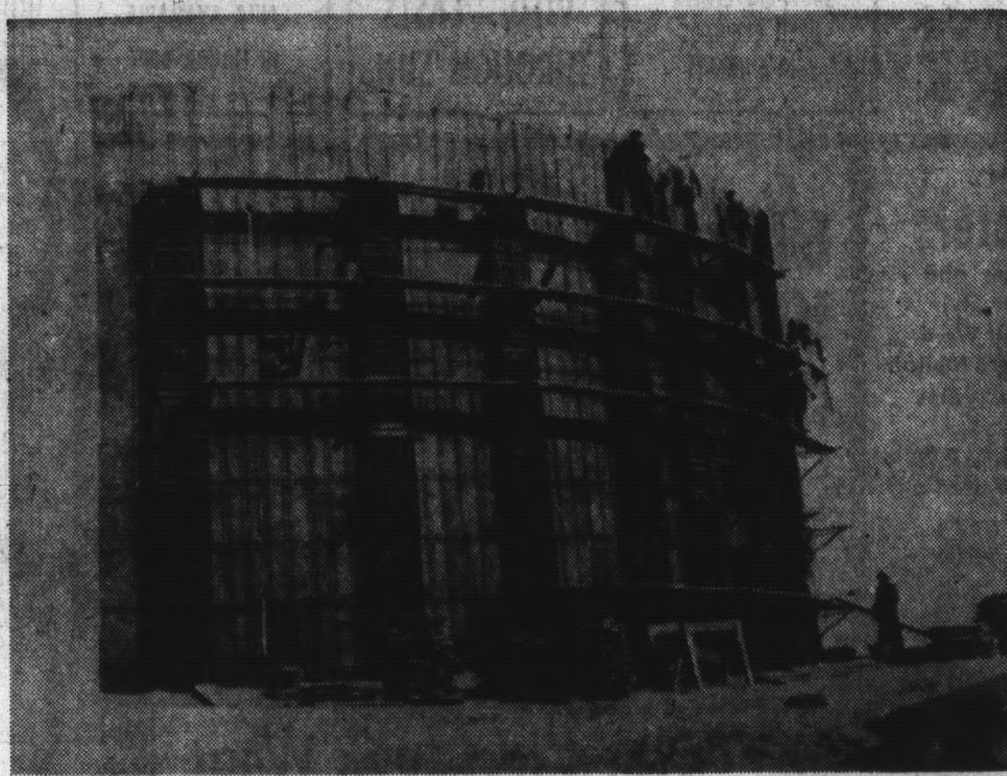

The subdivision was formerly the Christen Dairy Ranch and was annexed by Daly City in December of 1963. It lies between Skyline and Junipero Serra Boulevards, south of Mary's Help Hospital.

Eighteen months of planning and land grading followed annexation before Serramonte's first home opened in June of last year.

SINCE THEN, home-building, the backbone of the development, has proceeded ahead of schedule, according to a spokesman for Standard Building Company, the developers.

About 400 homes were sold last year—300 of these in the

Storage Tank Going Up

WATER NEEDS of Serramonte residents and businessmen will be served by this 1.5-million storage tank, under construction off Warwick Street, by a twin tank purchased from the North Coast County Water District and by a 10-million-gallon underground reservoir, now in the design stage. first month of sales—and the company hopes to sell another 600 this year, a spokesman said. A total of about 3,000 homes and 5,000 apartments are planned for Serramonte in a building program expected to take five to six years.

By way of comparison, neighboring Fairmont to the west, a Henry Doelger-built subdivision in Pacifica, has seen an average of 500 homes constructed each year since the first house was completed in 1962.

Serramonte's houses are being erected by Sunstream Homes, a 44-year-old company credited with building more homes in San Francisco than any other concern.

The Serramonte houses range in price from $20,950 to $29,500—depending upon whether they have three or four bedrooms and one or two baths.

ONE OF THE reasons developers give for the ahead-of-schedule home sales is the attraction of the regional shopping center.

Planned as an all-weather, mall-enclosed complex, the center is expected to house between 60 and 70 stores, anchored by a three-story Macy's Department Store and a Montgomery Ward outlet.

The Macy lease has been signed. Plans for the Montgomery Ward store were announced last year and lease arrangements are nearing completion.

Harry Rothrock, commercial development manager for Suburban Realty, said that leases with 40 prospective stores are in the negotiation stage.

He added that on an overall basis, negotiations are "about on schedule."

From a physical standpoint, the shopping center is in the land grading stage, which is almost complete, Rothrock said.

He declined to give a probable date for opening of the center. However, a date heard often in discussions with other suburban officials and with city officials is the summer of next year.

Plans for a neighborhood shopping center that would be erected at King Drive and Callan Boulevard in the southwest corner of Serramonte also are well along, Rothrock indicated.

Suburban will lease the center as a whole to a supermarket chain, which in turn will sub-lease space to other merchants. The center, like its big brother to the north, will be enclosed.

Preliminary planning also is in progress on the medical center, which one official said would be "a fairly substantial facility."

ON THE CHURCH and school scene, site negotiations are well under way, Suburban officials indicated.

At present, the developers are discussing sites with representatives of five churches.

Sites for two schools, Serramonte High School, which will be built by the Jefferson Union High School District, and a junior high school, to be erected by the Jefferson Elementary District, have been designated.

Richard Coltrell, administrative assistant for the high school district, said a tentative agreement has been reached on a purchase price for the Serramonte site.

The district had gone into eminent domain proceedings after negotiations bogged down. Coltrell said the price could not be disclosed until an agreement was signed.

Serramonte High School will be built west of Chinese Cemetery. It will be designed to accommodate 2,000 students.

The junior high school will be built at the north end of the subdivision on a site bordered by Southgate Avenue and St. Francis Boulevard.

A Huge, New Subdivision

AERIAL VIEW of Serramonte, indicated by white border line, gives an indication of the subdivision's size, compared to surrounding areas. Daly City's Westlake area is north of Serramonte, Fairmont in Pacifica, may be seen at lower left and South San Francisco at lower right. View is looking north.

Frank Greenwood, superintendent of the elementary district, said a trade of land was being discussed that would "improve" the school site.

The school, yet to be named, would be the district's third junior high facility.

FROM WHERE Daly City officials view Serramonte, the subdivision's progress also is apparent.

Under the overall subdivision agreement, Suburban is installing curbs, gutters, sidewalks, streets, water lines, street lights, storm drains and sanitary facilities at its own expense.

Upon completion and after inspection by city officials, the improvements, as they are reservoir, now being designed for a site roughly in the center of the residential area.

To date, eight streets have been surfaced and almost all of them extend into areas yet to be developed. City Engineer Arthur Reschke estimated that the eight represented one-sixth of the streets that will be built in Serramonte.

The city has given final approval to three units of Serramonte (a subdivision is usually approved and built in units) and has given tentative approval to another three. Ultimately, Serramonte will include from 15 to 20 units.

Water needs of residents and the business community will be served by two 1.5 million gallon reservoir tanks and a 10-million gallon underground reservoir, now being designed for a site roughly in the center of the residential area.

One of the tanks is now in use, having been purchased last year from the North Coast County Water District in Pacifica, and the other is under construction.

FIRE PROTECTION is being provided by Station 7 of the Daly City Fire Department. The station is housed temporarily in a model home on King Drive, the southern boundary of Serramonte.

For recreation, Serramonte will have a 10-acre city park and a number of neighborhood lots and school playgrounds.

Tentative Okay Given Home Unit

Daly City councilmen found themselves faced with an unusually short agenda last week and, after some confusion over a tentative map of Serramonte Unit Number 4, easily dispatched the business at hand.

They approved the map, subject to conditions specified by planners.

They also gave approval to an 18-foot wall sign for a used car lot at 6811 Mission Street and granted a request to rezone the rear of a lot at 6084 Mission from residential to commercial.

Use permits were granted to Lurline Cooper for a dog-grooming salon at 2396 B Junipero Serra Boulevard, to Bill Phillips and Dave Bostrom for a new motorcycle sales and service firm at 7339 Mission Street and to William Moler for a new and used furniture business at San Pedro Road.

Finance Director Joseph Arch was granted permission to issue four new business licenses:

Georgette Marignac, for a beauty salon at 371 South May-

Resident Queries Need For Serramonte High School

"Is Serramonte High School really needed?" Emil Tenud of 1374 Southgate Avenue, Daly City, asked trustees at last week's Jefferson Union High School District meeting.

Serramonte High School will be built west of Chinese Cemetery. Accommodation for 2,000 students is planned. The school district went into eminent domain proceedings after negotiations bogged down over the price of land.

fair Avenue in the Westlake Shopping Center; Robert L. Green, for a doughnut shop at 2488 Junipero Serra Boulevard; Louis F. Rosenaur for a real estate, leasing, insurance and mortgage banking office at 2125 Junipero Serra and Frank S. Miller for a general contractors' firm at 6149 Mission Street.

A resolution was passed establishing traffic controls for the intersection of Lakeshire Drive and Lincoln Avenue. Lakeshire traffic will be required to stop at Lincoln.

Tenud asked reconsideration of Serramonte for several reasons. He cited the cost as too high, $2,206,000, and the transporting of 1,200 children who would attend the school.

"The location of the school," he added, "will be predominantly in a shopping area and the student body will be quite small. Also, I was told by the office of the Archdiocese of San Francisco that they are considering building a catholic high school in the area."

Supt. Edward Morgan said that negotiations for the site purchase of Serramonte have been completed with Suburban Realty Company, Serramonte's developers.

"Although only 800 students are within walking distance, we still would have to bus them to another district," he continued.

Morgan also stated that the archdiocese has "kept this district well informed." He said that a Mary's Help Hospital site had been earmarked but was not large enough. "The Catholic high school will not materially affect this district," Morgan concluded.

SSF Planner Takes Over May Second

The vacant position of South San Francisco planning officer will be filled a month from now, according to City Manager Eugene Aiello.

Daniel M. Pass, presently city planner for the city of Napa, will assume the South San Francisco job May 2.

South San Francisco has been without a permanent planner since the illness and death early this year of Mrs. Anita Robertson, who formerly held the position.

In the interim, the city has contracted with the planning consultant firm of Hahn, Wise and Associates.

Aiello said that the new planning officer has held his present position in Napa since 1958. Prior to that he served for five years as a planning technician for Orange County.

Pass, who grew up in Chicago, holds a BA in social studies from the University of Southern California, and an LLB from Southwestern University.

Product Inspection

FATHOMETER DEPTH SOUNDER, manufactured at Raytheon Company's Marine Products plant at 213 East Grand Avenue in South San Francisco, has "white line" feature that separates echoes of fish from those of the ocean floor. This feature enables commercial fishermen to recognize fish lying near the bottom.

Raytheon Company's S.S.F. Marine Plant Reaps Profit

Raytheon Company's Marine Products plant at 213 East Grand Avenue, South San Francisco, is highlighted in the firm's Annual Report to its stockholders.

For the second consecutive year Raytheon's net profits increased more than 30 per cent over the prior year.

Sales for 1965 were $488 million, a seven per cent increase over 1964.

The Annual Report, now being received by the firm's 25,000 stockholders, attributes the increases to acquisitions of firms in education and consumer appliances as well as growth in established commercial and government businesses.

The Marine Products Operation logged the highest sales in its history. J. Leonard Lovett, operation manager, said 1965 sales were up 16 per cent over the previous year. Planning for continued growth, the firm purchased an additional three acres of land adjacent to its plant for future expansion.

Lovett said that employment was up 19 per cent over 1964 and that 445 persons now work at the facility designing, manufacturing and selling mine radars, radiotelephones, depth sounders, radio direction finders, and related equipment.

Other products include a full line of citizens band amateur radio equipment. The plant produces equipment under the Raytheon, Apelo, Webster and Sideband Engineers labels.

The Raytheon Annual Report identifies three new products with the local plant. These are a new VHF (very high frequency) two-way radio for marine use, a fully transistorized citizens band transceiver for automobile and boat use, and a new single sideband radiotelephone for "ham" operators.

WHEEL STOLEN

William H. Yundt, of 441 90th Street, Daly City, reported to police last week that a wheel had been stolen from his auto, parked in his carport.

Bruno Sees $1.48 Million Construction

New building permits for the first quarter of 1966 in San Bruno totaled $1,483,742, according to figures released by the building inspection department.

The first-quarter figure represents an increase of some $174,000 over the same period last year.

While total figures for the three-month period are higher, however, the March 1966 valuation of $449,989 is lower than March last year by more than $161,000.

The difference shows mainly in new apartment construction; in March 1965, four units were started, at a cost of $202,000. This March no new apartment permits were issued.

The majority of last month's permits—twice as many as the next category—were for residential alterations. Twenty-eight permits were issued, for work valued at $49,479.

New homes accounted for 14 permits, and a figure of $268,620. One duplex permit was issued for construction valued at $40,000.

New commercial construction permits this March totaled $62,000 for four applications and commercial alterations on eight permits added another $29,890.

D.C. Resident Attends Fete

Life insurance man Milton Reynard was selected by Mutual of New York to represent Daly City at the company's regional honor conference in San Francisco, last week.

Reynard, who resides at 83 Woodside Avenue, is associated with the company's San Francisco-Stiller agency.

He was among 105 sales leaders from the company's western region who qualified to attend the business conference on the basis of sales achievement during the past year.

The four-day meeting at the Jack Tar Hotel focused on new methods by which local specialists can expand insurance services.

Special attention was given to the company's new program of using a centralized computer system to analyze specific personal and business insurance needs.

Group Asks CSM to Set Up Programs

A step toward obtaining community education and culture programs in Pacifica from the College of San Mateo and other sources was taken at a community workshop meeting last Wednesday.

In attendance were representatives from the schools, library, city departments and local organizations.

Karl Baldwin, city manager who is helping to structure the group, said that he was encouraged that its numbers had grown.

A temporary steering committee, headed by Mrs. Enid Emdee, was formed.

A name for the group will be selected and sponsorship of the Park, Beach and Recreation Department will be sought. The organization hopes to arrange courses, lectures and other programs in Pacifica from the College of San Mateo through Dr. William Miller, college community co-ordinator.

Miller has attended several meetings of the group and described types of programs that could be offered. One, he said, would be a pioneer program that would use Pacifica as a testing ground.

Those in attendance agreed basically that a community education and cultural program must be broadly based and must serve a cross-section of the population so that it will have full community support. The Culture Room of the Pacifica Library would serve for most activities.

Interested residents can attend a general meeting to be held again at noon in the Culture Room April 20.

Train Kills Female Hobo In South S.F.

A female hobo walked in front of a Southern Pacific freight train in South San Francisco last week, ending a life that had apparently amounted to nothing.

After an estimated 60 years of life, the woman had only some dirty work clothes and a small dachshund dog.

She didn't even have a name. "Jane Doe," said Deputy County Coroner Joseph McPheters was gray-haired about five feet, four inches tall, weighed about 140 pounds.

Another hobo, Joseph Tomiak, who saw the fatal accident, said he had seen her climb on the flatcar in Niles, with her dog, and that she and another hobo had been drinking cheap wine together.

When the train stopped in South San Francisco at 2:07 p.m., behind the H. B. Fuller Company at 57 South Linden Avenue, "Jane Doe" staggered off across the tracks, directly in front of a southbound freight train.

Engineer Glen Barker told police he did not see the victim in time to stop, and skidded his train for nearly a block getting it halted. At first, he thought the dead hobo was a man.

No one seems to know what happened to the dog.

Deputy Coroner McPheters said other hobos told him the woman had been living in "The Weeds," a hobo jungle near Niles, and hanging around "The Niles Club," a nearby bar.

Her blue jeans, work shirt, denim jacket, and bowling shoes, were in fairly good shape even though quite dirty, he said. But who she is, he does not know.

Students To Visit Israel

Temple Judea High School students are 70 per cent toward their goal of sending two of their classmates to Israel through their candy-selling venture entitled, "Two to Israel."

With the same goal in mind, the group now plans to sell subscriptions to the Jewish Digest and to wash cars.

There will be a car wash on Saturday, April 16, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Advance tickets will be sold before Friday evening services in the Temple foyer and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week in the Temple office. The car wash will take place at Westlake Richmond Station at Lake Merced Boulevard and Southgate Avenue.

Price includes: Car Wash—$1; Car Wash and Wax—$1.25 (Both include dusting the inside of the car.) Pick up and deliver by competent, trustworthy drivers is 75 cents extra.

Reservations may be made by telephone to the Temple office, JU 6-8833.

Cook Indicted in Bombing

An unemployed fry cook arrested last week for two North County market bombings was suspect from the start, Deputy District Attorney James Browning said today.

Taken into custody yesterday afternoon was Michael Alex Gaspar, 20, of 353 Clifton Road, Pacifica. He had been indicted by the County Grand Jury 12 hours earlier.

Browning said Gaspar became a suspect soon after crude time bombs were exploded in grocery stores in Daly City and Pacifica last December. He had been arrested for similar activities in 1964, the deputy recalled, but charges against him were dismissed. Last year, according to Browning, Gaspar turned state's witness in a bombing case in Healdsburg.

Gaspar was indicted on two counts of attempted extortion and two counts of unlawful use of explosives after the jury had heard testimony from 12 witnesses, including an FBI explosives expert who flew out from Washington, D.C. The indictment was kept secret until Gaspar was found in San Francisco and was taken into custody at the home of his brother, Steve.

The suspect was booked at county jail in Redwood City and held in lieu of $10,000 bail.

Browning said Gaspar is believed to have been involved in other cases not involved in the indictment but concerning which evidence will be introduced in his trial.

The cases upon which the indictment was based were an explosion at the Mayfair Market, 2665 Geneva Avenue, Daly City, December 20, and one at the Central Foods Market, 609 Crespi Drive, Pacifica, December 21. In the Pacifica bombing, a clerk, James Fong, 33, of San Francisco, was hurt. In both cases, money was demanded on the telephone before the bombs were exploded.

The bombs were short lengths of metal pipe containing gunpowder and explosive caps that were detonated by cheap alarm clocks.

After a conference with his mother, the defendant said he had no money with which to hire a lawyer. Judge Hartley appointed Carlos Tinsley, a Redwood City attorney, to represent Gaspar. The matter was continued to 9 a.m. Friday for plea.

On Gaspar's behalf, Tinsley moved for reduction of bail. Browning opposed the motion, stating that the practice of placing bombs in supermarkets constitutes "a grave threat to the citizens of this county." Browning said a San Francisco police officer told him that Gaspar would be likely to flee the county if he got out on bail.

Harbor Board Threatened By Break-up

The County Harbor Commission has appealed to the Governmental Research Council for help in its fight against the threatened dissolution of the Harbor District.

S. B. Johnson, the commission president, sent a letter to GRC yesterday asking it to undertake a crash study of the problems involved.

The County Local Agency Formation Commission has recommended, admittedly with some misgivings, that the Harbor District be dissolved and that the county take over operation of the harbor at Pillar Point. The County Board of Supervisors is scheduled to hold a hearing on the proposal tomorrow and it is expected that the proposed dissolution will go on the June 7 primary election ballot.

4th Member of S.S.F. Gold Gang Escapes Prison Term

The fourth member of the gang that stole $47,000 worth of gold from the Wildberg Bros. smelter in South San Francisco last August is the only one to escape a prison term.

Guido G. Mastronardi, 36, of Santa Rosa, was admitted to probation last week but Superior Judge W. Howard Hartley left a prison term hanging over his head. A prison sentence was suspended on condition of good behavior and Mastronardi was put on probation for five years and ordered to serve the first year in county jail.

Probation Officer R. H. Faber had recommended that Mastronardi join his three co-defendants in prison. It was noted, however, that Mastronardi had no prior criminal record and was not actually present at the time of the burglary.

Faber said Mastronardi, a former employee of the Wilberg company, supplied the information to the other three men. But on the night of the burglary he stayed in Los Angeles and, according to Gaber, made sure of his alibi by taking a girl friend out on the town.

There was evidence, the probation officer said, that during the last two years Mastronardi worked for Wildberg, he stole small amounts of gold and turned it over to Emilio P. Paoletti, 59, of San Francisco, who "fenced" it and split the profits with Mastronardi.

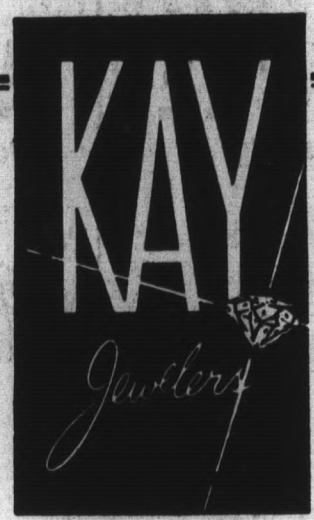

Paoletti and the two other co-defendants, Arthur L. Corneille, 44, of San Anselmo, and Paul P. Eipp, 38, of Rohnert Park, both admitted professional burglars, have been sent to prison.

April Fool Joke Played On Firemen

South San Francisco firemen roared up to a box alarm last Friday and found a sign hanging on the alarm box. It said—what else?—APRIL FOOL.

After they had recovered, in came another box alarm. Firemen found a harried woman pedestrian waiting for the light to turn green at an intersection where there is a pedestrian-controlled signal. She should have pushed a button on the traffic signal. Instead, she pulled the nearby fire alarm lever.

Then, by golly, there was a third box alarm. It turned out to be a plain old false alarm. Firemen said they were a bit disappointed.

Three floor shows nightly featuring an all-Latin cast of exciting entertainers. . . . The parking lot right next to SIL OLIVA'S EXPOSITION FISH GROTTO on Fisherman's Wharf looks like a meeting place for out-of-towners. License plates from Honolulu to New York and all points in between, signify the early summer tourist pilgrimage.

La Touraine One Of The First French Restaurants

The Burlingame La Touraine restaurant was one of the first on the Peninsula to serve authentic French dinners. Their new policy of serving luncheons Tuesday through Friday, dinners Tuesday through Saturday, has caught the palate fancy of countless discriminating diners. A cocktail lounge was recently added—featuring a very selective wine list. Not open Sunday or Monday.

George Cerruti has attracted many new faces to the Villa Lounge to enjoy his foot and finger tappin' dance music. A no cover or minimum charge policy is in effect. Special Easter dinner will be served—reservations are highly suggested.

Frank Torres, Montara Beach restaurant proprietor, is not the least bit superstitious. Counted 13 huge picture windows in the dining room from which the guests admire a breath-taking view while partaking of breakfast, luncheon or dinner. Not open Monday or Tuesday.

In this day and wage you don't find many restaurants featuring full course dinners starting at $2. But this is true at the New Tivoli. Owner Nick Finocchio has been at the helm of this well-established North Beach restaurant for many years—and in the same location, too. Banquets are a specialty (five rooms to accommodate from 15 to 300 persons).

The Surf House, "home" of Ron Giannotti, is a mighty fine place to be for a relaxed luncheon or dinner hour. Enjoyed Skewered Prawns and Scallops here, the other noon day, and never tasted better. New England or Manhattan Clam Chowder, along with the soups of the day, is another not-to-be overlooked menu suggestion.

Many compliments on the "new look" at Joe and Lou Ercoli's Leaning Tower restaurant in South San Francisco. Italian and Continental cuisine specialty of the house. Dining room open Friday and Saturday until 11:30 p.m. Luncheons and dinner served daily. Not open Sunday.

EVER WONDER WHERE THE HYATT HOUSE's musician, Bob Wellman, disappears to everytime his orchestra finishes a dance set in the magnificent Scheherazade Room? Nine chances out of 10 you'll find him sitting around the piano listening to the musical renditions of Rose Marie. The "Easter Bunny" informed Bright Lights, this week, that dining room Manager Carl Spann and his wife, Peggy, are grandparents again. Their daughter gave birth to a bouncing baby girl named Debra Ann Garibaldi. . . . Set like a Swiss chalet amidst 22 acres of gardens high in the Oakland-Berkeley hills, the Resort Hotel Claremont has been a symbol for vacationers' and businessmen from all over the world for nearly 50 years. . . .

GUIDO BIANCHINA AND JOE SELMI'S J AND G restaurant was the last-Saturday p.m. setting for the JENKINS family dinner. My agent reports that young JON JENKINS called for seconds from the family-style soup bowl, which, when placed on the table, is ample servings for four persons. (By seconds, I mean a second bowl—not helping). . . . DICK MAUS, long-time organist at the Algie's, is now entertaining at DORAN'S in Belmont, one of the Peninsula's newest restaurants. . . . JIM DOVAL and THE GAUCHOS have proved such a musical sensation at the NU BEAT in Redwood City that they've been held over. "THE WILD ONES" are scheduled for a local engagement—coming direct from Sybil Burton's Discotheque. . . . Whether the fun is at Candlestick Park, Cow Palace, or the theater, you will find South San Francisco's BERTOLUCCI'S the perfect place for before and after cocktails or dinner. . . .

GEORGE BURGER'S FRANCISCAN, a show place restaurant on San Francisco's Fisherman Wharf, is sought out by as many local people for its outstanding nautical view from any table in the house, as it is by sight-seeing tourists. . . . "Big Nick," chef at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant, and his charming wife enjoyed a week's vacation at Lake Tahoe. Understand they lived the life that "Riley" did. Meanwhile, reports are that Bossman Vince Licata is recuperating at home. You can be sure he will be up Nevada way to enjoy the sun (among other things) when he gets the "green light" from his doctor.

CURRENTLY RAISING THE ROOM temperature at Fred and Jerry Rapp's swank Holiday Inn in South San Francisco is Erika Mason, attractive cocktail waitress whose figure is in the "hour glass" class. A popular luncheon and dinner spot, the Holiday Inn features entertainment six nights a week, along with dinner-dancing every Friday and Saturday by the well-known Gary Long Trio. . . . If you like Chinese dishes, you'll love dining at the Charm Garden restaurant in Belmont. Open six days a week, Tuesday through Sunday, the Charm Garden offers excellent food, courteous service and a charming atmosphere. . . . The exotic movies of beautiful nude models shown from 2 to 9 p.m. at the Moulin Rouge are drawing large afternoon and early night crowds. They are an eyefull! . . .

KAREN SAINSBURY
A New Queen

CSM Co-ed Is Crowned County Queen

By BARBARA BLADEN

Romance and victory came to Karin Sainsbury Saturday night when she was crowned Miss San Mateo County.

The ninth annual pageant was televised from the College of San Mateo Little Theatre, where relatives, friends and sponsors witnessed a parade of local beauties, one of whom will represent them at the Miss California Pageant in Santa Cruz.

Karin, the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Frank Sainsbury of 320 West Thirty-seventh Avenue,
San Mateo, scored high in poise, charm, figure and talent, as was evidenced in a dance routine to the song "Goodie Goodie." Her father, a first officer with the Maritime Service (MSTS), was informed of her victory by cable as he is en route from Vietnam aboard a troop transport due here April 11.

Winning contests is nothing new to the 19-year-old San Mateo. She is Miss San Mateo City of 1965 and was second runner-up for the county title last year.

It was during this contest that she met Richard E. (Bud) Miller, who she has been dating ever since. Karin was posing for publicity pictures on a horse owned by Miller. Their mutual love of horses was only one of many things they discovered having in common.

The brunette beauty is a freshman at College of San Mateo. Born in San Francisco of English heritage, she began her dance training at the age of four with the Duncan Sisters in Burlingame. She's been a student of Les Williams for nine years and has also studied the piano for five years.

Miss of ceremonies was Wendy Lee Douglas who shared the spotlight with Georgina Anne Hillerby, outgoing queen, and Christy Ganas, television hostess and Miss San Mateo County on 1963. Barbara Rossen, first runner-up last year, sang several songs.

A proposed merger of two major savings and loan associations in California into a single $2 billion association was revealed recently by the State Department of Investment.

The two associations are American Savings and Loan Association of California, with headquarters in San Francisco and 31 offices in Northern California, including Westlake, and American Savings and Loan Association headquartered in Whittier, with 18 offices in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

The merger application states that the northern association would be the emerging association and would continue the name of American Savings and Loan Association.

A combined statement of condition shows total resources of the two associations were $2-072,609,835, as of February 28, 1966.

The northern association had assets of $1,292,205,296, and the southern association had assets of $780,404,539.

"The proposed new state-wide association will enable us to serve our customers more efficiently, provide greater conveniences for savers and furnish advantages comparable to those of the large banking systems," according to S. Mark Taper, president of the two associations.

"We anticipate that substantial economies will be revealed in the operation," he added.

The northern association was founded January 30, 1885 and the southern association on October 25, 1920.

'Constitutional Convention' Held By Westmoor Students

"Since our independence our country has united under the Articles of Confederation and the United States of America..."
These are the beginning words of George Washington, as portrayed by Virginia Jones at the re-enacted Constitutional Convention in Dexter Leland's civics class at Westmoor High School.

"Mr. Washington" called the convention to order and made his introductory remarks. Then he started the discussions rolling. Five topics were to be discussed, debated, and voted upon.

The first topic was the composition and organization of a national legislative body and the basis for representation. Edmund Randolph of Virginia, portrayed by Mary Miller, presented the national plan which asked for a national government to be established consisting of a supreme legislative, judiciary, and executive.

But there was much disagreement on the lesser issue of the relative weight to be allowed the small and large states.
After much debate and discussion, Roger Sherman of Connecticut, portrayed by Cheryl Wood, proposed the great compromise, a bicameral legislature. The House of Representatives would be chosen according to population and the Senate would consist of two members from each state.

William Johnson of Connecticut, played by Rayme Lichten-berg, asked for a roll call vote.
The compromise passed by a 9-2 vote with Massachusetts splitting.

The second committee reported on the question of counting Negro slaves as a basis for apportioning representation in the lower house of the legislature and the levying of direct taxes.

Chairman Charles Pickney of South Carolina played by Pat Plyer, explained the slave population should be counted. This statement aroused much anger and a heated debate arose. This problem led to the "three-fifths compromise" which provided that three-fifths of the slave population should be counted both in determining a basis for representation and for levying direct taxes. The vote for this was a tie, but George Washington broke the tie by voting for the compromise.

William Houston of New Jersey, portrayed by Milo Torres, was chairman of the committee on the question of granting Congress the power to regulate commerce among the several states and foreign trade, including the slave trade.

Because of arguments over how much power the states should have and how much power the government should have, George Read of Delaware, played by Robin Orr, asked to see the United States made into a consolidated nation which would do away with states completely. This would give the small states such as Delaware the same chance as any three counties. It was voted upon and defeated 9-4.

The committee on the study of the method of electing officials to the presidency and vice presidency was headed by Richard Bassett of Delaware, played by Cathy Hillsman. It was decided the President was to be chosen for four years by properly selected electors.

The committee to propose the method of ratification of the Constitution by the states was headed by Robert Yates of New York, portrayed by Ken McCollister. It was agreed upon that nine states had to ratify this new document in order for it to be the "New Law of the Land."

A 3-year-old girl was seriously injured Thursday afternoon when she was struck by a car near her Fairmont district home and thrown some distance, Pacifica police reported.
Taken to Mary's Help Hospital with a reported fractured left leg, fractured shoulder and face abrasions was Lisa Tempone, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
William Tempone of 150 Catalina Drive.

Officer Richard Hillman said the driver of the vehicle, Stephen Garrity, 17, of Oakland, said he was westbound on Catalina when he was blinded by the setting sun after making a slight turn and saw the little girl in front of his auto. He was not cited.

Contrary to a report in last week's Post-Times sports
section, Dennis Phillips, College of San Mateo pole vault-
er, did not attend Westmoor
High School.

Sorry About That, Dennis

Contrary to a report in last week's Post-Times sports
section, Dennis Phillips, College of San Mateo pole vault-
er, did not attend Westmoor
High School.

Russia Film Is a 'Dud'

Barbara Bladen

CINERAMA PROPOSED to take us on a "Russian Adventure" last Wednesday night at the Golden Gate Theatre, but for at least a third of the film we could have been detoured back to our own country.

The film was made in Russia by Russians and I wonder if they know how similar our two countries are. The camera explores such facets of Russian life as a logging mill, steel mill and Siberian forest. It could have been a documentary on Northern California, Pennsylvania or Maine. Nothing in many of the scenic flashes indicate that we were in the Soviet Union.

There's no mistaking the location however when you see women brick layers but the film suffers from length. Scenes of cows grazing, trees being cut down, an octopus hunt, and wide expanses of grain fields being harvested don't have enough sock appeal to warrant the price of admission.

But when they do take you to the "inside" of such awesome settings as the Bolshoi School and Theatre, pan in on the truly spectacular and death-defying circus performances for which the Russians are renowned and take you on a thrilling troika race with reindeer, or an antelope roundup, the excitement is unparalleled. And the ballet excerpts are beautiful.

THE MANAGEMENT apologized for the poor condition of the film print and I hope they do get a better one. If that's the best Russian technology can produce, they are way behind us in film-making. The separation lines are so bad on the three camera process that at one point the perforations on the inside of the film showed. Sound is distorted and color seems faded to a postcard pallor. This may all be corrected.

None of the sequences tie in well. Bing Crosby, who has a three-minute prologue and then becomes the voice lulling one on sporadically throughout the two-part film, avoids the lecture format. Sometimes he explains a scene and sometimes they flash by so quickly, there isn't time to narrate.

It is completely non-political. No home life, no real insight to the contemporary Russian way of life is viewed. As a propaganda film, it is a dud. As a documentary, it is a dud. As an adventure, it is a dud. But as a spectacle, it has some excellent moments.

The one illuminating scene that comes as a treat and surprise to those unfamiliar with Russia, is a journey on a subway. Their underground stations are ornate marble and gilt halls with crystal light fixtures and frescos on the walls. And their transportation system is very modern.

8-WEEK PROGRAM

'Head Start' OK'd By Bruno Schools

Trustees of the San Bruno community services. Park School District have approved participation in a federally supported program designed to help some pre-kindergarten children begin school.

The program, dubbed "Head Start," will run eight weeks, beginning in July. It will be for children who, officials have determined, need guidance to start kindergarten.

Two groups of 15 children each will be enrolled in the program, which will be conducted at Belle Aire School. A staff will include two teachers and two teacher-aides, according to Assistant Superintendent F. H. Jackson.

"Head Start" was approved by trustees after reports had been given by Mrs. Diana Giles, primary consultant for the district; Mrs. Donald Barnhart, representing the American Association of University Women (AAUW) and Robert Hine, representing the county's Human Resources Commission.

Jackson described "Head Start" as a "community action program"—hence the participation of the AAUW and the commission.

Ninety per cent of the cost of the program will be paid by the federal government, Jackson said. The district's contribution will be the other 10 per cent.

Enzymes In Bay Sewage Treatment?

A committee of San Bruno and South San Francisco officials was set up last week to study a plan to experiment with enzymes in the sewage treatment plant shared by the two cities.

The committee, of South San Francisco Councilman Andrew Rocca, San Bruno Councilman Barney Barberian and the city engineers and managers of both cities, will report back after a study. The committee was set up at a meeting of officials of the two cities.

Enzymes Inc., has approached the cities to try out chemical products which the firm says will remove petroleum wastes and detergents from sewage.

San Bruno Councilman Ronald Rizzo said today that the proposal is for the cities to pay the firm if the trial is successful. San Bruno is not satisfied with this arrangement.

The treatment plant, he said, is turning out the purest discharge of any plant in the Bay Area and is the least offender.

Daly City Scouts will join with boys from Brisbane, San Francisco, Oakland, and Alameda County in Northern California's largest boys' show at the Cow Palace, April 30.

Tickets sell for $1 for adults, with children under 16 admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

S.S.F. Police Promote Duo

Two promotions of South San Francisco policemen have been announced by Chief John Fabbri.

Sgt. David Casey, 43, a member of the department since 1957, has been promoted to lieutenant. Casey, formerly a member of the detective division, has recently been assigned to patrol duty.

A Mistake, A Gasp And Then Relief

The audience attending last Monday's Jefferson Union High School District meeting in the Westmoor gymnasium experienced a tense moment when the time came for a decision on school boundaries.

Trustee Edward Solomon introduced the motion that rejected the required shifting of some Westmoor students to Oceana (Boundary Committee report) and instead, put it on a voluntary basis (trustee recommendation).

Solomon encountered some tongue-twisting, however, in making the motion and said: "I move that we accept the committee's recommendation..."

This was followed by a gasp from the audience. Solomon quickly corrected his error, and continued:

"I mean that we accept the board's unanimous statement of March 14" (open enrollment campus for Westmoor with voluntary busing to Oceana, and the use of portable classrooms at Westmoor to relieve overcrowding.)

Solomon's correction was followed by audible groans of relief from the audience and some clapping.

NICKELS TAKEN

Kenneth Bassler of 3420 Crestmoor Drive, San Bruno, reported to Daly City police last week that thieves had stolen nickels from amusement machines from his billiard parlor, Daly City Billiards at 6380 Mission Street.

Trustees Urge Students To Voluntarily Attend Oceana

A plea for the voluntary attendance of Westmoor High School students at Oceana High School was made by three trustees following rejection of a Boundary Study Committee report to the Jefferson Union High School District.

Trustees approved an open enrollment policy at Westmoor, which would enable students to make their own decision on whether to attend Oceana.

Committee reports had proposed that students of the future Serramonte High School should be housed at Oceana.

These would have included ninth, tenth, and eleventh grade students living south of a suggested boundary.

Board chairman Elio Fontana stated: "I'd like to see some of the same interest that has been generated by these meetings, also generated for students going to Oceana of their own accord."

Trustee Lyol Ingersoll agreed: "I think that the people here should take a second look at Oceana. Many students would be better off going there than attending a school as crowded as Westmoor."

Trustee Raymond Milton described the accreditation of Oceana High School and stated: "I don't think anyone has to sell Oceana."

25 New Officers Bolster CHP

Twenty-five new highway patrolmen, first contingent of 50 new officers who will nearly double the CHP force in San Mateo County by May 1, were being indoctrinated to local patrol procedures at the CHP headquarters in Redwood City last week.

The new officers are being added to the San Mateo County force as a part of "Operation 500," the campaign to intensify patrol of the freeway system
